

EIGHT YEARS FOR MRS. DOCIA NOLAN.

Woman Who Took Part in a Brutal Crime Given a Long Sentence.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20.—Eight years in the penitentiary at San Quentin is the penalty that Docia Nolan must pay for her share in the brutal beating and robbery of aged Mrs. T. V. Matthews at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Tuttle, on Haight street, on the afternoon of March 4, last.

With the convicted woman swooning in her sister's arms, Superior Court Judge Bennett of Santa Rosa, who tried the case before the jury in Judge Cook's department of the Superior Court, denied the motion for a new trial, denied the motion following for arrest of judgment, paid small heed to counsel's plea for leniency and passed sentence on the woman, without comment further than to say the crime was one of the most atrocious in the history of San Francisco.

A stay of execution for ten days was granted for an appeal to the Supreme Court.

It is now believed, says the Bulletin, that Nolan, Whitlaw and Davis, will plead guilty and ask for the mercy of the court.

KING OF ITALY WILL GO TO PARIS.

Pope Would not Receive a Visit From the President of Franc.

PARIS, June 20.—The officials here are not desirous of discussing the complications arising from President Loubet's projected visit to Rome owing to the delicacy of the questions involved.

When shown the Vienna reports to the effect that the visit had been given up because the Pope would not receive the President, it was stated that it had never been officially determined that the President should visit Rome. While this probability continues, no official decision has been reached and no announcement made as to the time or program.

Senator Prinetti had an hour's talk with Foreign Minister Del Casse yesterday. He said afterwards that if King Victor Emmanuel came to Paris, Italy would expect M. Loubet to go to Rome.

He added that Italy did not want a repetition of the difficulties which arose from the fact that Emperor Francis Joseph did not return the late King Humbert's visit to Vienna.

The official program of King Victor Emmanuel's visit to Paris, given out today, gives no mention of a return visit. The King will stay here from July 16 to July 18 and will be entertained with elaborate fetes, a military review, state banquets and a gala performance at the opera. He will occupy sumptuous apartments. The King will be accompanied by the Italian Minister of Foreign Affairs, which will give particular significance to the visit.

JENNIE HEATON WILL GET ALL THE ESTATE.

Supreme Court Holds That She is the Legitimate Daughter of the Late Warren Heaton.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20.—Jennie M. Heaton is to retain her position as administratrix of the estate of her father, Warren Heaton, the late Oakland capitalist. The Supreme Court so decided today, affirming the decision of the Superior Court. The case was appealed by Chas. W. Palm, nephew of Heaton.

The Heaton estate is a large one, consisting chiefly in realty. Justice Shaw wrote the decision.

It was concerned in by six of the justices.

(This is a legal victory for Reed & Nusbaum and F. C. Whitney, who fought against a bitter legal fight made by Palm.)

The decision establishes the legitimacy of Miss Heaton as a daughter of Warren Heaton. This is the second appeal. The judgment of the lower court was reversed in the first appeal because of the admission of hearsay testimony. In the second trial, before Judge Ellsworth, such testimony was eliminated. Palm had been appointed special administrator. After the decision of the lower court Miss Heaton was appointed in his stead, and Palm took this last appeal.

RELIANCE WINS RACE IN EASY STYLE.

CONSTITUTION COMES IN SECOND AND COLUMBIA THIRD.

NEW YORK, June 20.—The Reliance, Columbia and Constitution started today in a race over a triangular course of ten miles around Long Island twice. The prize was a silver tankard offered by the Seavanhaka-Corinthian Yacht Club. An hour before the start the breeze was blowing 6 to 7 knots, the yachts being timed across the starting line as follows: (Unofficial.)

Columbia, 12:30:36.
Reliance, 12:30:54.
Constitution, 12:30:56.

Soon after starting the Reliance took the lead and gained over a minute in the first turn. Around the first mark the boats were timed as follows: (Unofficial.)

Reliance, 12:50:02.
Columbia, 12:51:05.
Constitution, 12:51:25.

NEW YORK, June 20.—Reliance won the race, beating Constitution 4 minutes 23 seconds, and Columbia 7 minutes 39 seconds. Unofficial elapsed time.

STUDENTS WERE KILLED.

THEY MADE TROUBLE AND WERE SHOT BY THE SOLDIERS.

BERLIN, June 20.—Apparently referring to the same rumors which were published by the Tageblatt recently and which were subsequently denied in a letter from Constantinople published by the Tageblatt, the Cologne Gazette reports that forty wounded soldiers were removed from the palace in one night and that troops were used to suppress disturbances at a certain school, resulting in a number of students being killed or wounded and asserts that Bulgarian vessels are being closely watched.

WINS THE DERBY.

Breaks the World's Record in a Grand Race.

Wonderful Burst of Speed on Chicago Track.

CHICAGO, June 20.—The crowd that saw the American Derby run today, was the largest in the history of the race. It numbered between 60,000 and 65,000 people. It was Chicago's greatest gathering of any year and carried with it an unusual display of fashion. What promised to be a dismal day turned out to be an ideal one.

The grandstand was packed before 1 o'clock. The crowds started as early as 11 o'clock, and there was a continual rush of people up to the time the bugle sounded the call for the derby.

The infield from the club house to the head of the stretch was covered by hundreds of equipages, the smartest turn-outs that the wealth of the city could procure.

In the infield were 500 vehicles of all sorts except automobiles.

The automobiles were barred from the guards as a matter of safety, but were allotted space opposite the main entrance to the track.

It took ten acres of ground to accommodate the horseless carriages.

Society gathered at the club house and at the boxes and formed the most fashionable gathering that was ever seen in Chicago.

Gregor K, the property of W. M. Hedges & Company, ran in the first race. This left the following field, which went to the post with jockeys, weights and positions at the post in the order named:

Weight.	Name.	Jockey.	Odds.
122	...Sinner Simon	Landry	40
127	...Claude	J. Daly	5
111	...Bad News	B. Davis	20

123	...Giffain	Bonner	40
125	...Judge Himes	H. Booker	5
122	...Gold Bell	Otis	20

Nineteen horses started in the derby.

Early, a colt from the stable of Tichenor & Company, and Colonnade and Dick Wells, owned by Respass, were withdrawn at 2 p. m.

Pickett wins, Claude second, Bernays third.

The winner breaks the world's record. Time, 2:33.

ASSASSINS WILL LIKELY BE TOLD TO KEEP UNDER COVER.

BELGRADE, June 20.—The alarmist reports regarding alleged events at Constantinople are deliberately concocted and circulated with the connivance of the Serbian officials, with the object of diverting the attention of the people from the hostile criticism of events in Serbia in the now arriving foreign newspapers.

Unless King Peter is prepared to altogether ignore the foreign demands for the punishment of the assassins, his only means of satisfying any requirements appear to be to persuade the criminals to absent themselves until quiet is restored, when they will be permitted to resume their places in the army.

The provisional government holds office at the will of the army and should King Peter promise to punish the officers implicated it is likely as not that the army would force the withdrawal of the Provisional government from office.

Colonel Mischnina, who took a prominent part in the assassination at the palace, has been appointed commandant of the military district of Belgrade.

KING PETER TO MAKE JOURNEY.

VIENNA, June 20.—King Peter will arrive here Tuesday evening. At the railroad station he will receive the homage of the Serbian colony and will continue his journey by way of Buda Pest, arriving at Belgrade Wednesday.

SULTAN STILL HOLDS POWER.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 20.—The reports sent abroad recently in regard to the Sultan are absolutely without foundation. Everything is quiet here.

ILL OF PARALYSIS.

NEWCASTLE, Ont., June 20.—Henry Sanford of Bridgeport, Conn., vice-president of the Adams Express Company, is critically ill of paralysis at the former home here of his wife who died suddenly yesterday of paralysis of the brain.

ONE MORE BODY IS RECOVERED.

HEPPNER, Or., June 20.—One more body was recovered from the debris this morning, making 162 recovered. Main street is practically clear of debris and the work of sanitation proceeds with all due haste.

The excitement and nervousness which has permeated the town since the hour of the terrible flood, is subsiding and a more hopeful feeling predominates.

STREET RAILWAY STRIKE MAY END IN RIOTS.

Governor Summons Militia and Great Trouble is Feared in Dubuque Tonight.

DES MOINES, Iowa, June 20.—Governor Cummins, upon receipt of advices that a crisis was approaching in the street railway strike at Dubuque, issued orders today mobilizing three additional companies of militia at that point.

Governor Cummins' action was based upon numerous messages from the Mayor, sheriff and leading citizens of Dubuque, expressing a grave fear that the night would witness an outbreak on the part of the railroad strikers and their sympathizers that might culminate in setting fire to some of the leading places of business. The situation was reported as critical in the extreme.

The Waterloo, Independence and Maquoketa companies, which, with the Dubuque company constitute the first battalion of the Fifty-third regiment

I. N. G., will be patrolling the streets of Dubuque by nightfall under the command of Major Allen of Dubuque, who will later be superseded by Adjutant General Byers of this city.

The strike was instituted May 7, since which time all efforts to operate street cars in Dubuque have precipitated riots.

The Governor refused to do more than hold the first battalion in readiness to rush to Dubuque upon demands of citizens.

Today, however, alarming advices concerning a secretly planned outbreak tonight impelled him to act.

He telegraphed to the Dubuque authorities that the troops are not for the people or for assisting the strikers in any way, but to prevent damage to property and for the protection of citizens.

BIG FOUNDRY COMPANY GOES INTO HANDS OF RECEIVER.

TRENTON, N. J., June 20.—Application was made in the Court of Chancery by Andrew H. McNeal, of Burlington, N. J., for the appointment of a receiver of the United States Cast Iron Pipe and Foundry Company which has fourteen plants at different points throughout the United States.

The company was incorporated about three years ago with an authorized capital of $20,000,000. Mr. McNeal charges extravagance and mismanagement. He further charges that the company has been operated more with a regard for the exploiting of the company's stock in the stock market than for the practical utilization of the company's works; that from its organization the company's management was dominated by General Samuel Thomas, whose principal occupation, McNeal says, was that of a promoter of companies and exploiter of stocks. McNeal further charges that since the spring of 1901 the company was dominated by its president, whose associates, he alleged, were financiers and exploiters of stocks.

It is averred that the plant at Buffalo is operated at a loss of $400,000 and that plants at West Superior, Eridgeton, South Pittsburg and Newport were dismantled and rendered useless and that all of these plants were acquired at excessive prices. It is also charged that for the purpose of exploiting stock statements to the public were published showing nearly $1,000,000 surplus which Mr. McNeal claims is not true.

WILL PROSECUTE JUDGE DE HAVEN FOR PERJURY AND FORGERY.

JACKSON TRIAL MAY RESULT IN A NUMBER OF NEW CASES.

JACKSON, Ky., June 20.—Since the removal of Jett and White to Lexington and the prospect of another trial in another county beyond the scene of the feud, there is considerable talk here of prosecutions for perjury and bribery. It is said that a move is on foot to swear out warrants at once for the arrest of men in high places for bribery, perjury and "as accessory to the Maroon murder before the fact."

One of the warrants is expected to be served tonight. The statement by Judge Redwine that he will call a special term of court when he finishes his work in Irvine and Lee counties is taken as a conclusive step in this direction. The situation is still one of apprehension. The foreman of the Grand Jury that indicted Jett and White has been threatened and the soldiers were stationed around his house last night, as well as around that of Haddock, who testified to seeing Crawford and Therpe, teamsters for Hargis Brothers, coming from the Ewen Hotel just before the fire was discovered. Anxiety is felt for other witnesses and jurors and the provost marshal will continue holding Jackson under martial law.

LEXINGTON, Ky., June 20.—Notwithstanding Judge Hargis' request that Jett and White be allowed "extra" at his expense, both men ate the jail breakfast. This was visiting day, but visitors were not allowed to see the Breathitt county prisoners.

JOHN ROHAN GETS DEGREE OF DIVORCE.

John Rohan, the coal merchant, was today granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from his wife Florence Rohan by Judge Melvin. The testimony in the case was taken before Court Commissioner Clarence Crowell and the judge's findings based upon the finding in the case. Rohan alleged extreme cruelty as the basis of his complaint and Mrs. Rohan did not appear to contest the suit. He was given the custody of the two children, Mary and James Rohan. The decision certain really was set apart as the absolute property of the petitioner.

TELLS CARMEN TO BE CAREFUL.

At a meeting of the Carmen's Union of Oakland last night in Gier's Hall, President W. D. Mahon of the International Association of Street Railway Employees of America, addressed a large and enthusiastic audience on the "Advantages of Organization." President Crane presided and introduced the speaker. President Mahon is a fluent and eloquent speaker, the sincerity and plausibility of his remarks being appreciated by everyone. He discussed the improved condition that has resulted from the formation of unions and cautioned the men against making unreasonable demands of their employers, laying particular stress on the importance of arbitration in all cases of disagreement between employer and employee. President Richard Cornelius of the San Francisco Carmen's Union then delivered a short address.

BERTETTA CAN PUT UP SIGN.

Unless I. Bertetta, optician on Thirteenth street reduces the size of the electric sign he proposes placing over his place of business, the Board of Public Works will take a hand in the matter and order the sign down. An application was read from Bertetta yesterday during the meeting of the Board asking permission to erect a sign fourteen by five feet, the request stating that the sign was already constructed and ready to be hung. But attention was called to the fact that the sign was larger than those allowed in the ordinance covering signs which is soon to be introduced and so it was decided to allow Bertetta to erect his sign provided it conformed with the proposed ordinance which declares that the sign must not be more than two feet in width.

Robert G. Graham, a student at the University of California at Berkeley is violently insane, as a result of too close application to his books during the past term. While riding on a Telegraph avenue car yesterday afternoon he became violent and was taken to the Receiving Hospital. The young man has been removed to his home in Berkeley.

PLAYER TO CRUISE ON CHICAGO BOWLING CLUB

CALIFORNIA BOYS WILL TAKE A TRIP TO REDWOOD CITY.

The California Yacht Club members have no set program for today or tomorrow. The fleet will cruise to Redwood City, San Mateo County, this afternoon. Most of the yachts will leave on the last tide at noon, which will enable them to get into the slough at Redwood City at high water. This is the first cruise the Californians have had on their program to that part of South San Francisco bay, but in the future the club will make several runs in these waters. The only objectionable feature to a cruise in these parts is a crooked narrow channel all the way to Alviso. At Redwood City the California yachtsmen will be joined by several yachts of the fleet of the South Bay Yacht Club, which will sail from the clubhouse at Alviso.

As a friend, let us advise you to have the Curtin Street, 14th and Franklin streets, put up the window blinds in your new home. All brass put up with screws.

Among the many symptoms of eye defect none is more trying on that delicate organ than is that condition where objects become jumbled at close range. At times objects are clear and distinct, and at other times they are blurred. This is usually an eye condition brought about by long gazing; is often a timely warning that the eyes have reached the limit of endurance. Why not let glasses do this work and use this wasted nerve-power and headache indication or dyspepsia?

I tried several physicians, but with only temporary relief. I have taken seven bottles of Paine's Celery Compound and I am now well. I had not been able to work for two years, but now I can work all right. Paine's Celery Compound is the best medicine on earth."

CABINET MEETS IN WASHINGTON

IMPORTANT AFFAIRS OF STATE ARE DISCUSSED BY LEADERS.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The time of the cabinet meeting today was consumed in a large part by the consideration of the legal questions involved in the decision of the United States Government to disregard the decision of the court of Virginia and seize the uncompleted gunboat Galveston at the Tule shipyard in Richmond. Attorney-General Knox presented a carefully prepared opinion on the subject strongly affirming the right of the Government to disregard the injunction granted yesterday in the Virginia Court, which forbids the resumption of work on the Galveston pending a settlement of the claim of the sub-contractors who have not been paid for material furnished.

In concluding his opinion the Attorney-General says: "One further point remains to be considered. The letter of the Secretary of the Navy requests to be authorized to employ if necessary the military forces of the government at his disposal for the execution of his orders in the premises. I am loth to believe that occasion for such execution of the federal powers will arise, being confident that any claim to interfere with the national rights under the judicial authority of the State of Virginia would be promptly disposed of and denied by the chancery court. For this reason I shall defer answering that question. The cabinet after considering this opinion unanimously decided that the Government case was sound and the program outlined yesterday by Mr. Moody should be pursued. An effort will be made to launch the boat Monday if conditions permit. It is intimate that information will be conveyed to the Virginia justice who granted the injunction in this case that he exceeded his proper function and it is expected that he will withdraw from what the Attorney-General regards as an untenable position, thus avoiding any clash at Richmond."

EDITORS ARE AT WAR.

BERKELEY, June 19.—The anomalous condition in journalism of two different papers with the name of the Berkeley Standard, one of which will be printed in Alameda and the other in the office of its old-established rival, the Gazette, of this place, will be witnessed here this evening.

This is an extravagant illustration of the absurdity of a house divided against itself, because the dual Standard will be placed before the subscribers by the trinity of newspaper men, who have been working at the sheet for some months past.

One issue of the double-barreled concern, that printed in the Gazette office, will be gotten out by H. P. Ellis, and the other by the efforts of E. H.

BODIES ARE FOUND AT HEPPNER.

HEPPNER, Ore., June 19.—The developments of yesterday afternoon and today show that the Heppner death list will pass estimates of the last two days.

There are several large shifts of men at work and corpses are being found many miles away. At the rate bodies are coming in, the list will easily reach 200 actually found, identified and buried. Many bodies have undoubtedly been carried to the Columbia river forty miles away and will never be recovered.

While the bodies yesterday and today were in horrible condition, many were frozen stiff when brought into the hot sun, a phenomenon rendered possible by their covering of half. Great banks of frozen half still lie in the drifts with bodies. Other people were found before a wall of half during the flood, they are stripped naked and their flesh whipped into a solid bruise.

Five carloads of provisions have arrived at Lexington for the destitute. The work of the relief committee is becoming more arduous. Hungry and destitute families are being found and are being cared for as rapidly as possible.

The name of Otis Bullis, 23 years old, of Tower City, N. D., is added to those missing. The bodies of Mrs. Douglas Gurdane, wife of the city marshal, Mrs. Boyd and child, a Chinaman and Emma Ashbaugh were found and identified today, bringing the official list of dead to 157.

TROUBLE IN THE BROWN FAMILY. NO CONNECTION WITH FIRM.

Judge Greene this morning made an even a division of the Brown family consisting of five members, as it was possible to do under the circumstances. The matter came this morning on a petition in the matter of the divorce asked for by Mrs. Alice Brown from her husband Henry Brown, a milkman living at 317 Fifth street. Brown alleged in an answer to his wife's complaint that she drove off his cows and secreted them at different neighbors' houses.

This morning he appeared in court with his attorney and asked the court to make an order giving him the custody of the children until the divorce proceedings had been finally disposed of. He stated that he wanted the children to live at home with him and help him with his work. The oldest boy went to the father and the two younger children to the mother until the matter is settled.

The secretary took the dispatch to the cabinet meeting where the subject will be discussed.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19.—Superior Judge Seavey today set aside the divorce law recently passed by the Legislature. He held that it was beyond the power of the Legislature to postpone the entry of judgment in divorce cases for one year after the right to a divorce is determined.

POLICE LOOK FOR ROBBER.

TRIED TO WROWN HIS VICTIM BEFORE HE ROBBED HIM.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19.—The police are looking for F. J. Morrissey, alias Henderson, who late yesterday afternoon brutally assaulted and robbed Herman Nelson, a Swedish farm hand from Fresno, of $80. Nelson was induced to go in swimming by Morrissey, whom he met at the Cliff house. He alleges that Morrissey tried to drown him and then left him unconscious on the beach, after taking his clothes and money. Morrissey left part of his own clothing and the police have an accurate description of him. See ALICE at Street Fair. There is no other like her.

STREET FAIR IS NEARLY READY TO OPEN.

Many Unrivalled Attractions and Fine Program for the First Day of the Festivity.

Every hour brings the work on the grounds of the Oakland Street Fair and Carnival nearer completion giving full assurance that the entertainment will be opened at the time announced next Tuesday afternoon when the place will be formally turned over to the people for their entertainment and recreation.

Tonight the thousands of electric lights which have been put up in the business section for the fair will be made to glow in honor of the visiting Turners to the Gau Turnfest.

The program for the opening exercises has been prepared and will be found very entertaining, and will have as auditors hosts of adults and all the children of the schools of the city.

The exercises will be introduced by Geo. W. Frick, principal of the Cole School, who is chairman of the Library Committee of the Oakland Street Fair and Carnival Association. Mr. Frick will make a short address appropriate to the occasion and will then introduce Councilman Dornin, who, in the absence of Mayor Olney, is the acting Mayor of this city.

Mr. Dornin will formally open the fair, bid everybody welcome, wish the association success and then tell everybody to enjoy themselves to their hearts' content.

F. P. McFarley, representing the Board of Directors of the Association will have a few words to say, after which there will be some school songs rendered by pupils of the public schools under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Brown, director of singing in the schools. There will then be a closing address and then the reign of the midway will begin.

The midway will be a great improvement on any that has ever been seen on the coast. It will be larger, better constructed, more symmetrically arranged and contain more entertainments than any organized in the western country.

There will be a captive balloon on the grounds which will make half-hourly ascensions.

A feature of the fair will be the number of booths which will be under the direction of benevolent organizations, the proceeds of which will be devoted to the relief of the distressed or to the aid of some of the charitable institutions of this city. Reference in detail has already been made of these booths. Among the displays of this kind will be that of the Catholic Ladies' Aid Society, which is being directed in an elaborate manner and in which fancy goods may be bought and in which refreshments of an appetizing character will be served at all hours of the day and evening. This booth will be in charge of a number of well-known ladies of whom the president is Mrs. T. P. Hogan. Her assistant is Mrs. O. C. Kirk. Those in charge of various features of the display are as follows:

Decorations—Mrs. Ham Coleman, Miss Catherine Maher, Mrs. T. P. Hogan.

Refreshments—Mrs. J. Feneran, Miss Agnes Collins, Mrs. J. Slavich, Mrs. J. McLenagan.

Cardy—Mrs. J. C. McAvoy, Mrs. Jennie Jordan, Miss M. Gannon.

Fancy Articles—Miss C. Mahar, Miss Maud Madden, Miss Maggie Collins, Mrs. James McAllister.

The Oakland Club is to conduct a refreshment booth under the direction of Mrs. Frank Havens. The patronesses are to be Mrs. C. S. Chamberlain, Mrs. W. S. Peters, Mrs. Henri Grandjean, Mrs. Florence H. Miller, Mrs. W. A. Schrock, Mrs. Charles Ebert and others.

The city jail and police court which were a feature of last year's fair, will not be carried on this year.

There are twenty-four apartments in all, furnished in charming style. All of the rooms have handsome brass bedsteads with soft, deep hair mattresses. The rest of the furniture in the rooms is in keeping with the other appointments.

Dr. McKanna's treatment promises to become as popular in this city as it is in Chicago and the Middle West, where he has established a reputation and his cure has been proved in efficacious three exterminators with no bad after effects.

Five of the leading railroad systems entering Kansas City recognize the treatment, as they will retrain a man who has been discharged for drunkenness if he takes a letter from Dr. McKanna saying that he has taken it. The doctor has the endorsement of some of these railroads and a great many leading business men who have men in their employ who have taken the famous treatment.

There are hundreds of letters from those who have been placed securely on the water-wagon by the "water-wagon man" of the Middle West, who has on the name from his grateful patients a class which will doubtless receive a large and enthusiastic addition in this city where Christians have almost disheartened the victims of alcoholism.

THEY WANT TO WEAR STARS.

The Board of Police and Fire Commissioners at their session yesterday afternoon granted demands against the Police Fund amounting to $113, and against the Fire Fund amounting to $339.05.

Three applications for positions on the police force were filed with the Board of Police Commissioners yesterday afternoon. The applicants are: W. S. Gordon, N. P. J. Healy and Thomas Gallagher. The latter was the Union Labor nominee for Councilman at the last election.

If you miss seeing ALICE you miss the Fair. Best in the Midway.

WILL WIRE THE CITY HALL.

Hereafter the Council will not be compelled to appropriate $200 every time the front of the City Hall has to be illuminated because the Board of Public Works yesterday allowed $250 for which amount the front of the City Hall will be wired with waterproof wires so that each time a display is necessary new wires will not have to be strung.

WATER WAGON MAN HAS LUXURIOUS APARTMENTS.

Dr. J. J. McKanna Has Opened His Thirt-Day Liquor Cure Sanitarium in San Francisco.

METAMORPHOSIS OF THE BUILDING AT 14 GEARY STREET IS COMPLETED.

The metamorphosis of the building at No. 14 Geary street, San Francisco, is now complete and Dr. J. J. McKanna has opened his three-days' cure for the liquor habit establishment in one of the most luxuriously appointed sanitariums in the city. For two weeks workmen have been busy remodeling the building, putting in handsome bathrooms and arranging the rooms into suites and single apartments.

A visit to the establishment with its charmingly appointed rooms and all the comforts of a luxurious home, is almost enough to drive a man to drink for the sake of the cure.

On this floor are the reception rooms and Dr. McKanna's private office, overlooking Geary street and Market streets.

One advantage of the establishment is the absolute privacy of the apartments, where patients need not know who occupies the next room. If, however, they are socially inclined, the most attractive rooms in the building are open to their use, the smoking and writing rooms on the second floor. In the former there is a card table of heavily weathered oak, and comfortable chairs for a smoke, with a large table to be covered with current reading matter. Opening from that is the writing room, which, when completed with its dark weathered oak desks and writing tables, will be an inspiration for letter writing.

At the back of the building is Dr. McKanna's laboratory, adjoining which is the kitchen, where only the light food served in the sanitarium is prepared.

There are twenty-four apartments in all, furnished in charming style. All of the rooms have handsome brass bedsteads with soft, deep hair mattresses. The rest of the furniture in the rooms is in keeping with the other appointments.

CAR GOES INTO THE BAY

LOW TIDE AND HEAVY LOAD TOO MUCH FOR FAIR TAIL.

A freight car broke in half about 1 o'clock this morning while being loaded on the "Thoroughfare" at the foot of Peralta street and plunged overboard into the bay. The accident happened in rather a peculiar manner. The cars were being loaded on the bay, and as it was low tide there was considerable incline for them to run down. The first one, which was heavily loaded with tinplate, which is valuable, was probably full, and so great was the strain that the forward end snapped off. The plate, which is valuable, will be raised in a few days.

POLICE PROMISE MORE TESTIMONY.

The police promise some interesting developments when the case of Lulu Hanson, charged with vagrancy, comes to trial in the Police Court. The woman a few years ago was the wife of a prominent West Oakland grocer. She became the companion of negroes, however, and at present she claims to be the wife of Washington Bland, a colored West Oakland conkeeper, claiming that she married him in Reno. But the police differ with her and declare that some interesting testimony will be given at her trial on June 22d.

POLICE COURT CALENDAR.

LOOKING FOR HIS FAMILY.

OFFICIALS WANT TO KNOW HISTORY OF P. C. McLAUGHLIN.

A man from the Middle West is confined in the insane ward of the Receiving Hospital and stands a good chance of being committed to an asylum and his identity lost. P. C. McLaughlin the man who became insane on the overland train yesterday was worse today and his examination was set for next Monday morning. In the near time telegrams have been sent to Chicago in an endeavor to locate his family. He either has forgotten his name or won't tell what it is and the name McLaughlin is only conjectural.

He was taken before Judge Ogden this morning but refused to say anything and was in a bad humor. Conductor J. A. Martin of the train upon which McLaughlin came to this coast was on hand and stated that he spent night before last in singing with some people and later woke up in the night and began to sing. At this time it was the singing of a man of whom he was not sure of the name. He was finally quieted down and a man was detailed to watch him as the passengers were becoming frightened. For three hours, running from Sacramento to Oakland Martin was obliged to sit beside him and keep up a pretended conversation with him. He would accost the passengers as they passed by his berth and was inclined to be rude to the women. When they reached Oakland he was turned over to the authorities.

SPEECH ON WAVES OF AIR.

WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY BOOTH BY TRIBUNE AT BIG STREET FAIR.

Everybody has heard of wireless telegraphy but it has been permitted to but few people to observe how this latest miracle of the science of transmission of information is accomplished.

As a consequence, there will be a great deal of interest aroused when it is announced that an opportunity will be afforded the people of this city to see how the new and invisible system works.

This demonstration will take place at the Oakland Street Fair and Carnival through an arrangement made between THE TRIBUNE and the Reuter-Marten Wireless Telegraph Company, and everybody is invited to become the guest of both THE TRIBUNE and the enterprising firm referred to and make a cursory or close study of the phenomenon as may suit their fancy.

For the purpose of illustrating this latest marvel of inventive genius, there will be two stations erected on the grounds.

One of these will be at THE TRIBUNE booth, the other being at quite a distance away. Between these stations, messages will be transmitted, the public being given an opportunity of greeting friends between the objective points.

This feature of the fair will be not alone amusing. It will also be instructive.

It will enable the people to see the marvelous instruments which have practically annihilated distance and made possible instant communication with moving specks of vessels hundreds of miles away on the limitless waters of the globe.

The people will undoubtedly appreciate the enterprise of THE TRIBUNE and the firm of Reuter-Marten Wireless Telegraph Company and will, of course, throng the stations by day and night.

It will enable the people to see the marvelous instruments which have practically annihilated distance and made possible instant communication with moving specks of vessels hundreds of miles away on the limitless waters of the globe.

PROBLEM SOLVED AT LICK.

ASTRONOMERS CARRY ON OBSERVATIONS OF GREAT IMPORTANCE.

BERKELEY, June 20.—A point which has long been puzzling astronomers has been recently determined by the scientists at the Lick Observatory. The results of the work have just been made known. Observations have been made of the star known as 19, 1903 Lyrae, to which Munich recently called attention as either a new star or a variable star. Considerable work has been done at the observatory on Mt. Hamilton since attention was first attracted to the star. It is near the Ring Nebula in Lyra, and its image is visible on the negative of that object taken by Prof. Keeler in 1899 with the Crossley reflector. At that time it was of the seventeenth magnitude, while recent observations show it to be of the twelfth magnitude.

It was not known, therefore, whether it was a temporary star such as Nova Persei or one of the large number of variable stars. Assistant Astronomer Perrine has recently been working upon this point and with the Crossley reflector show conclusively that it is a variable star, and that it belongs to a class of variables which contain bright lines in their spectra at maximum brightness.

In order to more accurately measure the position of the major planets in our solar system the astronomers at Lick Observatory have been carrying on also during the past year a series of measurements of other stellar bodies.

Astronomer R. H. Tucker has tabulated the position of 205 stars observed with the meridian circle for the past twelve months. These stars lie in the region commonly known as the Zodiac, through which the planets appear to move, and are used in deter-

Miss Nettie Blackmore, Minneapolis, tells how any young woman may be permanently cured of monthly pains by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"YOUNG WOMEN:—I had frequent headaches of a severe nature, dark spots before my eyes, and at my menstrual periods I suffered untold agony. A member of the lodge advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, but I only scorned good advice and felt that my case was hopeless, but she kept at me until I bought a bottle and started taking it. I soon had the best reason in the world to change my opinion of the medicine, as each day my health improved, and finally I was entirely without pain at my menstruation periods. I am most grateful."—NETTIE BLACKMORE, 28 Central Ave., Minneapolis, Minn.

Painful Periods

are quickly and permanently overcome by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The above letter is only one of hundreds of thousands which prove this statement to be a fact. Menstruation is a severe strain on a woman's vitality, if it is painful something is wrong. Don't take narcotics to deaden the pain, but remove the cause—perhaps it is caused by irregularity or womb displacements, or the development of a tumor. Whatever it is, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is guaranteed to cure it.

If there is anything about your case about which you would like special advice, write freely to Mrs. Pinkham. No man will see your letter. She can surely help you, for no person in America has such a wide experience in treating female ills as she has had. She has helped hundreds of thousands of women back to health. Her address is Lynn, Mass., and her advice is free. You are very foolish if you do not accept her kind invitation.

Details of Another Case.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Ignorance and carelessness is the cause of most of the sufferings of women. I believe that if we properly understood the laws of health we would all be well, but if the sick women only knew the truth about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, they would be saved much suffering and would soon be cured."

"I used it for five months for a local difficulty which had troubled me for years, and for which I had spent hundreds of dollars in the vain endeavor to rectify. My life forces were being sapped, and I was daily losing my vitality."

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me completely, and I am now enjoying the best of health, and am most grateful, and only too pleased to endorse such a great remedy."—Miss JENNIE L. EDWARDS, 604 H St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Pinkham, whose address is Lynn, Mass., will answer cheerfully and without cost all letters addressed to her by sick women.

mining the position of the planet by means of heliometer measures. These measures are to be made at the Royal Observatory at the Cape of Good Hope, under the direction of Sir David Gill. Nearly three thousand stars in this region are under observation at the Lick Observatory. The sheet list published of the positions of these stars are needed for immediate use in determining the position of major planets.

THE GRAND ARMY.

Our Stockton friend takes up a column in telling us why he knocks, but he could have stated his case as completely and more concisely by saying he is a Bryan Democrat. This is to be regretted, for the Mail is exceedingly sensible and fair-minded when it drops politics. But unfortunately it goes all to pieces when the Commonwealth gets to the office. Then blood comes on the face of the moon and trouble flies in at every window. It's the same old, same old. Try pills.

Obviously Grover Cleveland does not read the newspapers. He says he has not thought of returning to public life. Pass the salt, please?

It seems that U. S. Grant Jr. of San Diego has hopes of being nominated for the Vice-Presidency. The Union of that city announces that he, Mr. Barkis, is willing. But what about the 300,000 other citizens of California? Only a short time ago a Los Angeles paper stated that the friends of Grant, Oxnard and McLachlan were united in a program to give Senator Bard the nomination for Vice-President. Something must have gone wrong with the combination or Mr. Grant would not be saying his pastor in the ring as candidate for Vice-Presidential honor. Has Mr. Grant renounced his aspirations?

Perhaps Senator Hanna doesn't want to be chairman again, or perhaps he does. In any event Foraker doesn't have the say. The latter is letting the President a poor service by deliberately attempting to antagonize Hanna and his friends, and his intimation that Hanna is to be turned down is nothing less. Hanna is for Roosevelt, and that is enough. Foraker has no business to try to fight out his score with Hanna over the President's shoulders. He may discover that the President objects to being made the stalking horse for the Foraker program. Hanna is a good deal stronger man in the country than Foraker, just as he is stronger in Ohio, and the latter may

TAKES SIDE OF CARMEN.

JOHN A. JONES BELIEVES EMPLOYEES SHOULD SHARE NET PROFITS.

Editor TRIBUNE: So many admirable features distinguish THE TRIBUNE as one of the best papers in the State, it would seem invidious to single out any one for special commendation. But this, the writer will do, by saying the editorials of THE TRIBUNE are among its best features; and in point of spirit in which conceived, and lucidity of expression in and by which purveyed, they constitute the best of the several good features. In fact, so far as your correspondent is concerned as a reader of THE TRIBUNE, the first page he reads when he gets his paper, is the editorial page.

Now, just a few words, if you please, in comment upon the "leader" in last Monday's issue. This editorial was captioned, "On Hired Partnerships." This editorial was inspired by the pending claim by the hired operatives of the United Railroads of San Francisco, to a right to participate in the profits accruing from the prosecution of the great business in which they are a very material factor.

THE TRIBUNE appears to have interpreted this last demand of the union as a demand for the right to share with the stockholders of the United Railroads Company, the net profits of the business, that is, the amount of the annual or semi-annual earnings after all expenses for such term shall have been paid.

The writer is of the opinion that this is an erroneous conception; but he agrees with THE TRIBUNE that, if such be the true nature of the union's demand, it is wholly impracticable and for the reasons cited by THE TRIBUNE.

But, the very fact, that to comply literally with such demand interpreted as indicated, would be impracticable, convinces the writer that THE TRIBUNE misconceives the true nature of the demand. For, the men who are engaged in this matter on behalf of the union, are not imbeciles or mental incompetents, but rather are the virile and clear headed.

What is meant by this latest demand on the part of the operatives of the United Railroads, is, "we want an increased wage, because, resultant from our efforts united with those of the company through its salaried officials, there are certain profits by the stockholders, which profits are inequitably distributed to our earnings on our capital invested in the prosecution of the business, which said capital is our time, toil, and risk of our health and life."

In other words, "Pay us a greater wage, thereby enabling us to share more equitably in the earnings, by reducing, at least in some degree, the share that goes to those who have only their money capital invested."

The contention of the company is, if the scale of wages be paid to the operatives that they demand, the expected dividends cannot be paid to the stockholders. In this connection it is pertinent to note that the company is trying to pay dividends on $50,000,000 capitalization—more or less—while, it is sought the property that constitutes the basis of such capitalization, for about $20,000,000.

Suppose 50 per cent of this "water" were squeezed out, could not the company then pay the wages demanded by its operatives, and at the same time clean up net earnings out of which handsome bonuses could be paid to the stockholders? We think so.

No, it is not in the sense of being stockholders and therefore legally entitled to share pro-rata in the profits, that is, the net earnings, that the union has formulated their demand as has been done, but as joint proprietors of the business, entitled to participate equitably in the earnings, which participation shall be had in form of a reasonable increased wage.

There is nothing impracticable in this; nor is there any unreasonable loss or injustice in it.

Does not THE TRIBUNE concur?

JOHN AUBREY JONES.

CHRISTENSEN SAYS HE WILL BE GOOD.

The matter of the habeas corpus of Emil Christensen, the young man sentenced by Justice of the Peace Frowse to serve 90 days' sentence in the county jail for disturbing the peace at Hayward last Sunday, was dismissed on the petition of his attorney, Judge Tapan of Alameda. It was discovered that preparations had been made in case Christensen was let go on a technicality to have him arrested on a more serious offense. Rather than take the chances of a second trial it was deemed better to serve out his sentence than stir up more trouble for himself.

NEW SCHEDULE.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 20.—The Supreme Lodge A. O. U. W. has framed a new schedule of rates, and after it has been passed upon by the committee on laws, it will come up before the Supreme Lodge for action. Between the ages of 18 and 24 years the present rates hold in force, with a proportionate increase up to 55 but after that period the change will be more radical.

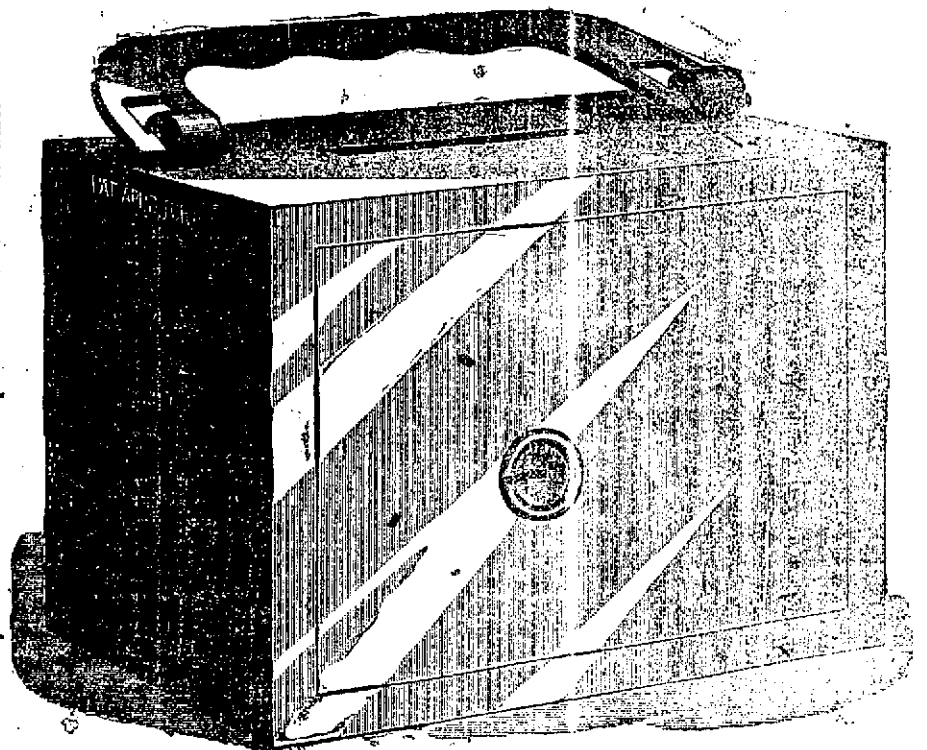

A special committee of three in ritual was appointed, one a literary man, one a religious man, and another familiar with the practical work of the lodge and the three were authorized to obtain the services of a play right. It was voted to give the committee $500 and should the preferred ritual satisfactory an additional $500 will be paid.

MUSKET OF BUNKER HILL.

OWNER'S PROSPECTIVE HEIR ON VISIT TO HIS FATHER.

Hall B. Rand, the proud owner of the revolutionary musket which was used in the battle of Bunker Hill, and which was won by the independence of the nation, has as his guest his only son, Dr. D. N. Rand of Portland, Oregon. The doctor will remain at the parental home until about July 2, when he will resume his practice in Portland. He has just returned from a trip to Europe, which has consumed the last eleven months.

Dr. Rand will become the owner of the musket in question when his father passes away, but he hopes that that event will be long deferred, although the father is now 75 years of age, but he is still vigorous and hearty.

TO BUILD MARINE RAILWAY.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC COMPANY IS TO CONSTRUCT WAYS FOR BIG VESSELS.

The Southern Pacific Company has decided to build a marine railway at the foot of Peralta street and contracts for the same will be let in a very few days. This decision was reached within the last few days and is caused by the inadequacy of the present shipyards to handle the boats of the company which need repairs and overhauling.

The new marine railway will be similar to the one at Boole's shipyard, but much larger. It will be 750 feet in length and 80 feet in width, and will be able to accommodate a ship of 4000 tons without any difficulty. As soon as it is completed, which will be in about a year's time, the shipyard will be moved to that point.

The foot of Peralta street was selected for the reason that the bay is deeper at that point than at any other point on the Company's property. As soon as the contracts are let the work will be commenced with the understanding that it is to be rushed with all possible and reasonable haste. The cost of the structure will be about $85,000.

STRIKING DECKHANDS SECURE DEMANDS AND GO TO WORK.

On Wednesday the deckhands employed on the various river steamers of the Southern Pacific Company struck for an increase of wages, and in their demand asked for an increase of $5 per month and twenty-five cents an hour for overtime over twelve hours. This demand was not acceded to at once, and about 250 deckhands went out, with the result that the company was badly handicapped all day Thursday, and after a conference the demands were granted, and the strikers returned to work at six o'clock Thursday evening.

TWO COMPANIES ENGAGE IN FRIENDLY RIVALRY.

Two great railway companies are now engaged in friendly rivalry for the development of a portion of northern California, which has hitherto been standing idle without railway connections. The region from San Francisco north to the Oregon line, 300 miles or more long, some 50 miles wide, and bounded on the east by the lofty coast range, contains in Humboldt county a vast forest of redwood sufficient to supply the demands of the country for generations. Two railways have been built from the bay opposite San Francisco part way toward these great forests, and two or three short lumbering roads have been extended from Eureka, on Humboldt Bay, the only port on the northern coast, but no connections to the south, north or west have been made. Now, however, the Atchafalaya, Topeka and Santa Fe and the Southern Pacific are both preparing to build to Eureka, with the probability of further extensions to or beyond the Oregon line. The Santa Fe has acquired the Bel River and Eureka Railroad running from Eureka south to the mouth of the Humboldt River, about 10 miles, and also a great tract of redwood timber. The Southern Pacific is believed to have purchased the Eureka & Klamath River road, running from Eureka north about 33 miles, and has two secured large tracts of timber. The California Northwestern road, running from Tiburon across the bay from San Francisco north 125 miles, is moving for an extension to Eureka, about 125 miles, and both the Santa Fe and the Southern Pacific have been engaged in building concerned in this extension. The San Francisco and Eureka Railroad, recently incorporated to extend from Willis, the terminus of the California Northwestern, to Eureka, is evidently a Southern Pacific movement, and seems to indicate that the California Northwestern is owned now in the hands of the Santa Fe. It is said that the Santa Fe is willing to co-operate with the Southern Pacific in joint ownership of the line to Eureka, but if this is not found feasible, it will build a new line, connecting with the Bel River and Eureka, having already incorporated a company, the Eureka and Bel River Railroad, for that purpose. So this long-neglected region, abounding in great possibilities for traffic and development, in various productions, is now being placed on the through lines of two of the great railway systems of the country.

NOTES AND PERSONALS GATHERED ABOUT THE YARD.

The large cargoes of sugar continue to arrive from Hawaii, and almost daily large trains of the commodity pass through the yard en route to the eastern refineries.

Andrew Stanrod is in charge of the marine shop during the absence of Foreman Yates, who is away on a camping trip.

Thomas Meagher will leave shortly for New York to visit his sister. He has not been in New York for twenty-five years, and is anticipating the trip with great pleasure.

Beck was taken suddenly ill with smallpox in a mild form this week and is now in the pest house. His friends look for a speedy recovery.

Jack Simpson had the misfortune to lose one joint of the thumb on his left hand yesterday. The slipping of a board while he was running through the buzz planer dragged his hand into the teeth of the saw.

WILL BE WELCOME.

NEW YORK, June 20.—Marcellus Hartley Dodge, who inherited the immense estate of his grandfather and has just been graduated from Columbia, will, it is stated, become a settlement worker. The report that he was settling his business affairs to take up a permanent residence at the Hartley House settlement on West Forty-fifth street has created much excitement among the workers in that line. The young millionaire makes no secret of his enthusiasm in the work of the Hartley settlement house. In order to satisfy himself of the value of the theories he studied at college, it is said, he will personally follow out the line of work directed there.

AN OLD SOLDIER WHO FOUGHT FOR THIRTY YEARS AFTER THE WAR WAS OVER.

A Veteran of the Forty-eight, Ohio Volunteers, Recently Relieved, Tells How He Won His Last Battle.

Mr. Charles Van Horn, a veteran of Company E, Forty-eighth Ohio Volunteers, now living at Goshen, Indiana, tells many a story of his experience in the Civil War, but none more interesting than his account of how, after thirty years, he relieved himself of the misfortune which overtook him while in camp during the early years of the war.

"When I enlisted," he says, "I was in perfect health but the food and hardship while the regiment was in camp brought on a bad diarrhea which troubled me for thirty years and which was finally cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I became weak and emaciated and often was unable to get around at all. I had a headache and the doctors who treated me failed to help me. My head ached, I had pain across the small of the back, and kept growing weaker constantly. In the fall of 1891 I read about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and determined to try them. I found that they helped me and a few boxes cured me entirely. Now I have none of the old trouble and feel entirely well and strong."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People cure cases like this because they go to the roots of the disease. Other remedies act on the symptoms—these marvelous vegetable pills remove the cause of the trouble. Not only have they cured hundreds of cases similar to Mr. Van Horn's but they have cured many other cases of rheumatism, neuralgia, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuritis, rheumatism, nervous headache, after-effects of the grip, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexion and all forms of weakness, either male or female. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are sold in boxes at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

His Last Hope Realized.

(From the Sentinel, Gebo, Mont.)

In the first opening of Oklahoma to settlers in 1889, the editor of this paper was among the many seekers after fortune who made the big race on fine day in April. During his traveling about and afterwards his camping upon his claim, he encountered much bad water, which, together with the severe heat, gave him a very severe diarrhea, which it seemed almost impossible to check, and along in June the case became so bad he expected to die. One day one of his neighbors brought him one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and as he had a big dose was given him while he was rolling about on the ground in great agony, and in a few minutes the dose was repeated. The good effect of the medicine was soon noticed and within an hour the patient was taking his first square meal for a fortnight. That one little bottle worked a complete cure and he cannot help but feel grateful to the season for bowel disorders being at hand suggests this item. For sale by Osgood Brothers, 7th and Broadway.

About Developing

When a customer entrusts films or plates to us for development, we realize at once that we have accepted a responsibility.

We realize that aside from the first cost of material, he has oftentimes been to great expense, perhaps accompanied by painstaking care and even personal hardship to secure his pictures; and we feel that he is entitled to have every detail brought out from each individual exposure. To this end we have spared no expense or thought in the perfection of our facilities and methods for handling this work. We have personally inspected the largest of the Eastern establishments where developing and printing are done. We keep in touch with the recognized authorities on development and avail ourselves of such new methods as are of established merit. The results are most gratifying. The work is nowhere handled any better, and our business grows and grows.

THE MEDDLER

Gossip About the Members of Smart
Set—Sothern at Macdonough—
Mrs. Horry Meek Entertains.

MISS FORE ENGAGED.

At last public curiosity has been satisfied over the formally announced engagement of Miss Pauline Fore and William Meln. All of the inner circles knew that it was Pauline that was to be 'Baby Mine,' as we've been calling her for some time, but rumor had it lone and so, of course, it was very easy for the younger sister to deny the engagement. All of the Fore girls are so pretty that they have been reported engaged several times, especially to one of our few eligibles but so far nothing has come of it and now the before-mentioned eligible is paying devoted attention to another girl.

The Fore wedding will not take place until late in the fall and the arrangements are not yet complete. The Meins are wealthy and it will be a pretty wedding with the two younger Fore girls among the bride's attendants, of course. The home of the young couple will be in Johannesburg, South Africa, at least for a time, and they will go there immediately after the ceremony.

TEA FOR MRS. BARCLAY.

Miss Rising gives a large tea today in honor of her friend, Mrs. Morrison Barclay of Greensburg, Pennsylvania, who is spending the summer with her mother, Mrs. Mary Cashman, of Central avenue and Grand streets, Alameda. Mrs. Barclay was formerly Miss Helen Cashman and when she was attending the University of California she made her home with the Risings, and between the college girls a warm friendship sprang up. All the old college clan will gather at the tea. Mrs. Barclay does not expect to return to her Eastern home until July. Mr. Barclay will come out after her and there will be several entertainments in their honor after Mr. Barclay arrives.

DR. COOL'S BIRTHDAY PARTY.

The house party entertained at Detwood, the country place of Dr. and Mrs. Russell Cool, proved a great success and as much fun as parties at that pretty place always are. Most of the guests went down on Thursday and remained until Monday. Mrs. Cool's birthday gift to Dr. Cool was a fine touring automobile, which holds four people, and the guests enjoyed many spins along the fine roads about Saratoga and Congress Springs in the shining new "buzz wagon." Some of the guests made the entire trip from Los Gatos back to San Francisco in the "auto." On the evening of the birthday dinner there were fireworks, an illumination of the grounds and many toasts and speeches after dinner. Then the gifts were opened and there were as many as a popular belle receives on her Christmas tree. Many absent guests had sent remembrances and the handsome things were spread out on a table for the admiration of the guests. The splendid bathing tank at Cools—the finest plunge in the State—also prove an attraction.

Among those entertained by Dr. and Mrs. Cool were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Deering, Mrs. Lucie May Hayes, Mrs. Walter, Mr. Fred Greenwood, Mr. R. M. Hotelling, Mr. Charles K. Field, Judge Harry Melvin, Mr. E. Myron Wolff, Mr. John Housman and Mr. Alvin Levintritt.

HOUSE PARTY AT LOS GATOS.

Mrs. Charles Sawyer of Los Gatos, formerly Miss Handy of Oakland, entertained a house party over Sunday at her pretty Los Gatos home. Among her guest were Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Doliver, Mr. Sawyer, who is a cousin of the Haights and much resembles Harry Haight in looks, is with a party of government surveyors in the Kings River country and will not return for some months.

THE MACONS WILL BE AN ADDITION TO OAKLAND SOCIETY.

Rev. and Mrs. Clifton Macon who have come to reside over Dr. Bakewell's picturesque church of Trinity will be a distinct addition to Oakland society. They have but recently returned from their wedding trip. Mrs. Macon has many friends in Oakland and Berkeley for, though always a resident of San Francisco, she attended the State University and has many social acquaintances on our side of the bay. It is Mrs. Macon's sister who is to marry Frederick Stevenson, though, I believe they have taken a house across the bay and are beginning to fit it up for their occupancy.

CLEMENT-HEWITT BRIDAL.

The Hewitt-Clement wedding is said to have been a very pretty one by those privileged to attend and now the name of Kate Clement which has been quite a famous one in local history is no more. I do not think anyone ever said "Miss Clement"—Kate Clement was so fat and suited her so well. Everyone says that she has done exceedingly well and that Dixwell Hewitt is a fine man. They received many beautiful gifts from the people who really care for them and as many hearty congratulations. The bride was very stately in her wedding dress and after the briefest possible wedding journey to Southern California, Mr. and Mrs. Hewitt will return to take up their residence in their home at Scott and Broadway. They have been busy fitting this up for some time and it is characteristic of newly married folk, whether they will build or not, that as soon as the home-making commences all other interests sink into the background and the last time I talked to Kate Clement I heard nothing but "house."

MISS CLAIRE M. CHABOT, WHO WILL ASSIST MRS. DUNN AT THE

WEDDINGS ON BUNKER HILL DAY.

The seventeenth day of fighting in the old calendar, being Bunker Hill Day, is the day of peace and happiness now, for there were three big weddings on that day. Samuel Mountford Wilson was married in church and George Newhall and Miss Taylor were married at the Taylor home. The Newhalls are going to Europe for a two months' jaunt and will have the finest possible time.

GREAT YEAR MATRIMONIALY.

The year ending with this June has been a great year matrimonially. The fight of the bachelors of standing and presumably confirmed tastes began with the wedding of Horace Holman to Miss Manuelita Page last June. Then came the announcement of Frank Deering's and Mabel Craft's engagement in October and then, in quick succession, the announcement of the engagement of George Hall and Miss Carroll and then Robert Fitzgerald's engagement and marriage to Miss Laura Crellin and now the Dixwell-Hewitt and George Newhall marriage. Almost the only bachelors left who deserve the name are James D. Phelan, Horace Platt and on this side of the bay, Sam Bell McKee. One might add another verse to Sothern's song and enquire mournfully.

"Where are the bachelors of yesterday?"

The girls have carried them all away.

But judging by their more youthful faces and happier looks they seem to enjoy it

SOTHERN'S GREAT SUCCESS.

I knew you would all like Sothern. I saw him across the bay and again at the Macdonough, and there has not been so fashionable an audience in that play-house for a long time. The place was packed, and I'm sure you all agree with me that it was one of the best shows that has come to us for many a day. Sothern carried away with him fragments of many a heart, but as he is married and a gentleman, he is quite safe.

MISS GRAY'S TRIP TO EUREKA.

Miss Mabel Thayer Gray, president of the Ebell, has gone to Eureka, Humboldt county, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. George T. Gray. They will spend a month there among the redwoods. Eureka is a charming place in which to spend the summer, albeit a trifle warm. Miss Gray is fond of the North. Two or three years ago she made the sea trip to Alaska and enjoyed it very much indeed, as did everyone else on the boat, for she is jolly and very good company.

THE HILBORNS TO SUMMER IN CALIFORNIA.

Mrs. Hilborn, widow of the late Congressman S. G. Hilborn, and her daughter, Miss Grace Hilborn, will spend the summer with the family of Mr. Hilborn's brother in Suisun. Oakland will see but little of them as most of the old friends are scattered, but they will make a brief visit to their old home before returning East. They are great travelers now and have wintered in Egypt and other far-off places since Mr. Hilborn's death.

Mr. Fred Hall, a cousin by marriage of the Hilborns, has returned from his Eastern trip and is living at his old home on Grove street.

BERKELEY AMPHITHEATER TO BE DEDICATED.

The Hearst amphitheater is rapidly nearing completion and is being pushed. It will be opened by the students in a fitting manner and three classical plays are now in course of preparation. The plays will be given in December, one by the Greeks, one by the French and one by the English department, and all will be classical comedies of a high order. The occasion will be a memorable one. Orrin Peak, who took such an interest in the amphitheater, is now in Seville, Spain.

LIKE OLD TIMES AT THE HUSHES.

It seemed like old times again to have the Hushes receiving last Monday, with Jean and Florence both at home. So many called during the afternoon that it was like an informal tea, for Mrs. Wells returns next Monday, and everyone who hasn't called made an effort to get there. We have seen so little of Jean this time, two weeks she spent in a sanitarium, with her mother, and as she wasn't seriously ill, only trying to rid herself of a persistent cold. I think her mother was rather glad to have Jean to herself for awhile.

Jean was always one of the most attractive girls in Oakland, to my mind, and since she has been married I think she is even sweeter looking than before, but with her charming manner one has little time to think of looks.

How does Jean do it? Make you think that of all her friends you are the one she most wanted to see. She looked charming on Monday in an old rose gown, exquisitely embroidered, in the same shade and made over pink silk.

She wore a rare gold and ruby necklace, and pink flowers in her hair. Florence Hush was in white with a wreath of fern in her hair.

Of course Mrs. Hush received with the girls, and a number of Jean's friends. Among them were, Mrs. Oscar Long, Miss Gertrude Allen, Miss Elsie Marwedel, Mrs. Chatham, Mrs. Charles Egilly, Miss Grace Baldwin, Miss Jane Rawlings, Mrs. George Doubleday, Miss Margaret Sinclair, Mrs. Irving Lundborg, Mrs. Beach Soule, Mrs. Edmund Baker, Miss Jacqueline Moore, Miss Ethel Valentine, Miss Grace Sanborn, Mrs. Henry Nichols, Mrs. Oscar Gowing, Miss Lone Fors, Miss Beatie Palmer, Miss Eleanor Davenport, Miss Bernie Drown.

Among the callers in the afternoon were, Mrs. Phillip Bowles, Mrs. Pentiss Selby, Mrs. R. A. Wellman, Miss Emma Wellman, Miss Ethel Moore, Mrs. W. R. Gorrill, Mrs. Charles Jarcels, Miss Jane Barry, Miss Edna Barry, Miss Mona Crellin, Miss Emma Mahoney, Mrs. W. H. Chickering, and her new daughter-in-law, Mrs. Harry East Miller, Miss Ella Goodall, Mrs. Alfred Cohen, Mrs. George Harmer and Mrs. John Clay Hampton. Almost the entire Cosmos Club called in a body, on their way to San Leandro.

The whole house was artistically decorated, the dining room with pink sweet peas, the living room with great clusters of syringas.

I noticed that the room was so heavily curtained, that we all looked dim and indistinct. It was rather becoming to some of us, and I wondered if it was an Eastern custom.

Surely none of the Hushes need to keep their complexions in a soft light, for every one of them have the most beautiful skins, quite English in coloring.

There was music by the mandolin and guitar club, hidden away in the hall, and I think teas are always so much more entertaining when there's some music, although we don't give it much chance to be heard.

ENTERTAINED BY MRS. MECK.

On Monday afternoon, the Cosmos Club, Mrs. Pedar Sather, president, were entertained by Mrs. Horry Meek at San Leandro. Mrs. Meek entertained the club during the blossom time, and this was a cherry party. There were five tables of players, and from all I hear, they each ate a cherry for every card they played, so imagine the quantity consumed.

There were several prizes awarded for cards, not for cherries, and I think the first went to Mrs. Sather, the regular substitutes' prize being won by Mrs. Gerrish, who is visiting here from southern California.

After the game there was yet more cherries, and everyone carried home a basketful.

The regular members of the club are Mrs. T. L. Barker, Mrs. J. R. B. Braham, Mrs. Q. A. Chasse, Mrs. T. C. Coogan, Mrs. Thomas Crellin, Mrs. J. A. Folger, Mrs. R. W. Gorrill, Mrs. C. M. Goodall, Mrs. W. S. Goodfellow, Mrs. Harry Gordon, Mrs. J. L. Howard, Mrs. E. H. Kittredge, Mrs. J. N. K. Jones, Mrs. Paul Lohse, Mrs. E. G. Lukens, Mrs. Horry Meek, Mrs. Will Meek, Mrs. A. A. Moore, Mrs. Pedar Sather, Mrs. F. M. Smith, Mrs. E. B. Stone, Mrs. E. F. Taylor, Mrs. E. M. Wals.

SOCIETY AT THE STREET FAIR.

So the street fair is coming a long again, and I for one, think it lucky that we have something to liveen us in the summer time. Last year we got some good times out of the fair, both assisting in the booths and going a bout in parties.

It was quite as good as a tea, for seeing all your friends, for those who weren't walking about were in the Fabiola booth, or the Social Settlement booth, and every time we passed the Fabiola booth, we stopped to talk or to eat those good French doughnuts.

Last year Mrs. Dunn and Mrs. Diekmann worked day after day, cooking the doughnuts, and I believe it took their Chinaman almost the whole week to keep enough material mixed for them. I should be afraid to say how much Mrs. Chabot donated for those materials, but it was in the hundreds, I believe. This year the Social Settlement are to have as her attraction the Royal Italian Mari-nettes, and from all I hear, they are well worth seeing. It will certainly be a unique entertainment, and is to be continuous.

GOSSIP ABOUT THE PLAY.

Ever since Monday evening we've been discussing "If I Were King," and some, feeling that a cat may look at a king, have been criticizing freely. The majority, especially among young people, say with one accord that it is the best thing they have ever seen.

It is, in some ways, and then again it isn't.

The play left with me a picture of that exquisite rose garden that I shall never forget, but it was marred, cheapened, in a way, by the comedy element introduced by the tavern keeper and his companions. I have admired beautiful pictures, then looked to find that they illustrated the lines of an advertisement, and after the second act, I was left with something of the same feeling of incongruity.

MRS. JAMES P. DUNN, CHAIRMAN OF FABIOLA BOOTH AT THE

Comedy is well enough in its place, but buffoonery is out of its element among some of those masterly lines, for there are lines which tell that the heart of the poet is in Justin McCarthy, and it seems a pity to take any part of it and clothe it in the rags and tinsel of buffoonery.

"But," some say, "it is very much the same sort of thing you will find in many of Shakespeare's plays." True, but unless they are handled by artists, such parts are often the marbling of them. There's heart in the play, spirit in it, and lines that go to the head, and make one think, with Francois Villon, that a week of life lived to the utmost is well worth the price he would have paid for it, but the piece lacks perfect harmony. As to Sothern's conception of the role of Francois Villon, there is little criticism.

Sothern and Francois are one, and it is hard to discriminate between them. There is in Francois the heart of a poet and the head of a man, a rare combination.

In him is the power of living life, and seeing through it, the faculty which casts the deepest shadows on his pleasures.

There is a perfect echo of his character in the lines of "Where are the loves of yesterday?"—consciousness of the possibilities in life, but full of a haunting realization of what a tiny link of life, even a great life, makes in the chain.

SHE CALLS SOCIETY SHEEP.

How like sheep we are, trotting after customs and conventions, as though we had no heads of our own, seeing the absurdity of certain of them, but lacking the initiative to change them.

I've been trying to figure out the relation of tea calls to teas, and I'm more hopelessly tangled than ever. If a woman sends out cards intimating that she would like to have all her friends call upon her on a certain day, we flock, thereby paying her a call.

Then why, in the name of common sense, do we owe her another call? Why, instead, doesn't she owe us one? If we had merely gone to her on one of the many days she keeps through the season, our duty would be done, and we could wait with a satisfied conscience until she returned our visit. Instead, we call on that day, wait a week or so and repeat it.

Is this second visitation as payment for the food and drink and music with which we had been filled on our first pilgrimage, and, if so, why isn't the feast eliminated, thereby doing away with the second call?

If, perchance, at our second call, she should pass us tea and cakes, by the law governing social etiquette, wouldn't we owe her a third? And where should we stop? I would suggest a readjustment of our social system on a more common sense basis.

OAKLAND PEOPLE IN YOSEMITE.

I'm going to give you a list of Oakland people who are going into Yosemite Valley this year. It seems to me that a greater number are going in that direction than ever before.

But I can assure you it isn't safe to start unless your accommodations are secured beforehand. A number went in this spring expecting to stay several weeks, but could get no accommodations, and returned within a few days.

Mrs. Edwin Morrison and Miss Charlotte Morrison leave this week, and will remain in the valley some time. I believe they are to meet some Eastern cousins there.

The John D. Ebys have planned to spend the summer there, and with them will go Mrs. David Brown, and Miss Crissie Eby. And that reminds me, why don't we see much more of Miss Crissie Eby in society? She is a beautiful girl, and decidedly talented, but doesn't seem to care especially for social life.

The Metcalf party, including Miss Viva Nicholson, have returned from the valley, and I've heard stories of all sorts of good times, for the Metcalfs are so well known, and are very genial people. How lucky Viva is to have so many good times with them. I wonder if she will repeat her visit to Washington. I wonder, too, when that big brother of hers will return to Oakland. He is a handsome chap, a six footer, and with the polish that comes invariably to navy men. He has been most fortunate in his appointments, too, and has had a chance to mingle in some of the very highest foreign circles.

The D. Edward Collinses, with a party of friends are also staying in the valley.

VISITORS AT HOTEL VENDOME.

There are quite a party of Oaklanders at the Hotel Vendome. Mrs. Ernest Forger and her children are the guests of Mrs. J. A. Folger at the hotel, and recently the George McNears, Jr., and Miss Elizabeth McNear have been spending some time there. Mrs. Houghton and Miss Minnie Houghton also are guests.

LUNING CAMP NEAR GEYSERS.

One of the most beautiful camps in California is the Luning Camp, near the Geysers.

The camp is situated in the river bed under spreading trees. Of course it is very hot there, and the days for the most part are spent between the swimming pool and the hammocks, but in the evening, after the sun has set, begin the really jolly times.

Then they go on long horseback rides, over the mountains, come back to supper and have a great bonfire in the evening. Mrs. Luning herself is a charming hostess, and she always has some friends of her son, Oscar Luning, and a number of young folks.

They are within driving distance of Cloverdale, and every morning a wagon goes over to return with the day's supplies, and with ice, so there is every pleasure of the country, with city comforts, and what could be more ideal?

Some may still enjoy the old-fashioned way of camping—limited number of tents, and everybody expected to help do the cooking, but home is preferable to country life under such difficulties.

QUINANS ARE IN AFRICA.

Speaking of Johannesburg reminded me of the Quinans, Caroline, Sallie and Henry.

You remember they left Oakland for Johannesburg some years ago, and from there came back news of all sorts of good times and social triumphs, and various conquests of the beautiful Miss Sallie, for no one denied that she was positively glorious. She was large, with yellow hair and brilliant coloring, and very beautiful blue eyes, not at all of the doll baby type, but decidedly full of life. She is married now, to an army officer, and the marriage, which was from the groom's home, was a brilliant affair. The family have left Johannesburg, at least Henry and Caroline have, and are living at present in Paris.

DARNING OF BACHELORS' SOCKS.

A new industry should spring up among us, that of darning bachelor's socks.

Did you ever stop to think of the straits of certain unattached men, who live in apartments, away from the supervision of a woman, who whenever the inevitable hole appears in their hose must cast them out, or be guilty of indecent exposure in their shoes?

Now it isn't so bad when the hose in question are of ordinary variety, but when they are of unique design or of silken texture, it pulls a man's heart-strings, as well as his purse strings, to part with them after a wearing or two.

So much have I thought of this matter, that whenever I see a bachelor, fresh from bachelor haunts, my thoughts invariably go to his toes, and I am filled with speculation as to their condition, to the demoralization of my conversational powers. I would suggest a remedy.

Every girl knows that there is no more fascinating sight to a womanless man than to see a woman sewing, especially if it is in the light of a becoming lamp.

It has such a domestic flavor to it that it is apt to bring results, and my suggestion is, that when one of the aforesaid bachelors makes an evening call, he take a few pair of hose with him, that the lady in question may mend them for him.

It would, I think, be beneficial to both, and I, for one, am going to suggest it to some of my men friends.

SIERRA CLUB GROWS IN POPULARITY.

Every year since its founding the Sierra Club has grown in popularity, especially among University folk. For those who like to get near the earth, and who have the hardihood to endure hard tramping and riding, and mountain climbing, there can be no better way to spend a summer month or so, and to see parts of California, that many of us are woefully ignorant of.

The moving of the Sierra Club is like the advance of an army. Bernard Miller is, I believe, commissary general, Mr. George Cobly leader of the expedition, and Dr. Veda Reddington surgeon-general.

Among those who form the advance guard, and make all preparations for the rest of the party are the J. M. Le Cortes, who are among the most experienced of mountain climbers. They go in ahead of the rest of the party, selecting the place for the camp, supervising the arrival of enough provisions to last through the summer, and getting everything in readiness.

This summer the camping ground is on the banks of the Kern river, near Kern lakes. On the twenty-third of June the first division starts—taking a special car to Visalia, staging two days to Mineral King, and from there tramping two days to the place selected. Once in camp, small parties are formed, but at meal time all come together, marching in line to the cook's quarters, where each person is given of whatever has been prepared.

This they take to their special camp. Last year, I believe, all unmarried men camped in a group, then came the quarters of the married folk, and beyond them the unmarried women. There are many side-trips taken, and this year the principal expedition which will be taken by those who are equal to hard climbing, will be the ascent of Mt. Whitney.

I think that not all of the time is given over to walking and riding and swimming, for there is some good work done on papers and lectures, and at times the whole party assembles to listen to an able paper, or a talk on something that is worth while. So, if one wishes, they may bring home with them something besides a coat of tan, and memories of jolly times.

DISTRESSED OVER AN ACCIDENT.

We were very much distressed this week over the automobile accident in which Miss Amy McKee and Edith

Salby had such narrow escapes. Fortunately Miss McKee escaped without injury, but Edith was not so fortunate. It seems they were climbing a grade by the new amphitheatre in the college grounds, when the machine broke and they slipped backward down the hill. Edith jumped and struck on her face, but Miss McKee and the chauffeur stayed with the machine till it overturned.

The first reports of Edith's injuries were of serious bruises and cuts on her face which would probably prove permanently disfiguring, and of internal injuries, but the reports were much exaggerated.

She did receive bruises and a bad cut on her lip, but I think nothing but what will heal in a short time.

We're awfully glad for Edith's sake that there were no more serious results.

BLOOD IN THE ROYAL FAMILIES.

Here is something I read about blood in the royal families:

It is strange how little really native blood the royal families of Europe have in their veins. The King of Greece is generally called a Dane, being second son of the King of Denmark, but as the King of Denmark was a prince of Schleswig-Holstein, the Danish and German reigning houses are both of German extraction. Germany has, indeed, supplied most of the royal houses in Europe. The Czar is, of course, a lineal descendant of Peter the Great, but nearly all his intervening ancestors have been German, as in the middle of the eighteenth century a Prince of Oldenburg inherited the Russian Crown, and transmitted them to the subsequent Czars. The King of Sweden is French, and of quite humble extraction—that is, humble for a monarch—though his grandfather, Bernadotte, was one of Napoleon's most famous generals. The Spanish crown is filled now by a prince who can boast at least of a fair percentage of real Spanish blood, and Italy's king, too, descended from the old kings of Sardinia—one of the Italian States. The royal old house of Hapsburg has given many emperors to Austria, which is one of the few countries where the king is really a native of the country he reigns over.

LOVABLE LACE FROCK.

Says our friend in London:

I saw such a lovable lace frock the other day that had a newness of aspect because chiffon and lace were worked together in its composition. It was a rather bold pattern of net lace that had been chosen, and the chiffon was of the new thicker kind, that is so much stronger and more desirable for a lady's frock than the other. Another lovable frock I met lately was in voile and fillet lace, the skirt was sunray-berthed, and the lace formed a sort of bertha, and plastron and ceinture. It struck me that perhaps the transparent yoke came out occasionally, but that was mere conjecture. Such a dainty lace and rose hat was worn with this frock—a Paquin hat, I discovered; it was so wonderfully becoming that I must proceed to 39, Dover street and see if I cannot make such a hat mine own.

JUST A POINTER FOR THE MEN.

My London friends read this:

Jewellers are well aware that a great many smart men have left off wearing watches in the evening, notwithstanding the inconvenience of being without "the time," because they will not submit to the disfigurement caused by the ordinary watch pushing out the vest-pocket. Mr. Hamilton, of 202 Regent street, the well known jeweller, has seen his opportunity, and has devoted himself for some time to making "the thinnest watch in the world." He has actually produced a man's keyless watch with works not thicker than a five-shilling piece. These are enclosed in a gold case, and the watch is an excellent time-keeper. He also makes a lady's watch, the works of which are the thickness of a half-crown only. These remarkable time-keepers can be seen at his show rooms, 202, Regent street.

CONQUERING WOMAN.

Conquering woman goes on her victorious way in our great city, says a London paper, and the statistical officer of the London County Council again records an increase of the majority of women over men; it stands now at 261,371. There are 1,118 women to every 1,000 men. Ten years ago it was not quite so bad—or so good—according to the view one takes. Only in the city, and in Stepney, Woolrich and Poplar are there more men than women; while woman has her highest predominance in Hampstead, Kensington, Paddington, and St. Marylebone. The domestic servant population is given most of the credit for this result—and yet we hear that there are not enough of them.

George Weaver, the foreman of the Eureka Tannery in East Oakland, who left his home at 1228 Twentieth avenue a little over a week ago, has not been heard from since. His friends have searched in vain for him and today the matter was reported to the police of this city.

No one can understand his sudden disappearance, and his wife can give no reason for his absence. It is limited, however, that the sum of $1000 which was left with him by Jerry Mullen, a friend, has disappeared with Weaver. This money was to be invested in a land deal but Weaver disappeared shortly before the payment was to be made. He drew his salary before leaving.

His wife is of the opinion that he has met with foul play. She says that they had not quarreled prior to his departure and that he left the house in a happy mood.

"I am at a loss to know what to make of it," she said today. The suspense will drive me crazy. I have been told that he left with $1000 belonging to another man, but if he ran away on that account I would have heard of him before now."

Stop and Think

WHEN ADVISED THAT
SURGERY IS THE ONLY WAY TO CURE

A Bad Case of Piles

Make haste slowly in this matter. If surgery is decided upon it means hospital, chloroform, opiates, confinement to bed for weeks and perhaps, a life of invalidism. In this progressive era there is no necessity for ANY CASE OF PILES TO BE CUT. These old methods are rapidly disappearing as relics of the past and a new, more perfect, radical and humane treatment taking its place which cures without endangering life or hindrance to daily pursuits.

Nearly six thousand men and women,—many in this and nearby cities, have been permanently cured. Many of these cases were of thirty to forty years' standing, who take great pleasure in relating to their suffering friends their experience with this new treatment, and these may be consulted personally.

If you are a sufferer it will be worth your while to investigate this matter. It is safe and absolutely certain, and is not a nostrum proposition. Names will be sent for investigation. For particulars call on or write

MAYOR SCHMITZ LIKELY TO GET REPUBLICAN NOMINATION.

Col. Kilpatrick's Position—Speaker Fish is not a Candidate—Col. Burns Has Gone to Mexico and Kelly Has no Backer.

BY GEORGE F. HATTON.

(Special to the Tribune.)
SAN FRANCISCO, June 20.—The handwriting is on the wall. Mayor Schmitz will receive the Republican nomination for Mayor this fall unless something surprising occurs within the next few weeks. It is hard to locate too, any quarter where the unexpected can happen for the situation is fast being outlined here and conditions are being created that can only be changed by an upheaval that would have to be cyclonic in character.

Nobody should be surprised at this state of affairs. It has been freely predicted in this correspondence for the past six months, for, to an observer it was palpable that everything was drifting in one direction. There was a time when the current could have been stemmed but it seems as if it is too late now and those to whom Schmitz is not acceptable will soon find that it is a case of bowing gracefully to the inevitable.

The first and in many ways the prime reason for all this is the lack of majority material in the Republican ranks. There are hundreds of good men, anyone of whom would fill the position well but somehow they are not available for one reason or the other.

Take ex-Judge Slack for example. It is conceded that if the Republicans would bury factional feeling and give him the nomination he could win. But the judges do not want to run and Slack to do so. He refuses the point that it is out of the line of his profession and furthermore his practice is such that he cannot afford to sacrifice himself upon the political shrine.

Then there is Election Commissioner Kellogg. In addition to the fact that he, too, refuses to leave his professional path he is barred by the Charter from accepting the nomination owing to his occupancy of his present office.

And so it goes, down the entire line of those who have been mentioned for the nomination. This man is not eligible, that one will not run, a third could not run on account of labor vote and a fourth because the Merchants would not accept him. It is always a hard task to find a candidate who is satisfactory to all and especially so this year when labor candidates must be taken into consideration.

TALK OF KIRKPATRICK.
During the past couple of weeks some feelers have been sent out as to the sentiment regarding Colonel Kirkpatrick of the Palace Hotel. Among the politicians everything was satisfactory and the business men also agreed that he would do. But when it came to the labor element it was a case of running up against a brick wall. While the labor leaders had nothing personal to advance against Colonel Kirkpatrick and conceded that he employed a large number of men, treated them well and gave them good wages, they explained that the rank and file of the toilers could not be brought to look with favor upon his candidacy. To them the Palace Hotel is a holy of holies set apart for the rich and in which a poor man is regarded as an intruder. Colonel Kirkpatrick could not probably do under the prevailing conditions, they said, and they prophesied that his nomination meant certain defeat.

There was another big obstacle in the way, too, from a political standpoint. Colonel Kirkpatrick is a member of the Board of Harbor Commissioners. He represents the interests with which the railroad is allied and in fact his appointment was, to a large extent, brought about by that influence. The other two members of the Board are President Charles Spear and John D. MacKenzie. The first named is the personal appointee of Governor Pardee and represents the State administration, while MacKenzie comes from the same source that evolved Kirkpatrick.

Now, while the Harbor Board is at present as amicable a body as can be, no one can foretell how long it will remain a happy family. Governor Pardee is doing his politics and making his appointments on an independent basis, though so far nothing has occurred to create a cleavage with the railroad or any other political influence. But can anyone guarantee a continuance of the harmony? Everything might run along serenely throughout the entire four years of the Pardee administration but, on the other hand, at any moment some matter might crop up that would tear present relations and friendships to pieces.

Should Kirkpatrick run for Mayor and be elected, he would, of course, have to resign from the Harbor Commission and Governor Pardee would name his successor. This would give the Governor absolute control of the most important commission in the State, for he would have two votes to one on every proposition. As things are now, though, the strength is the other way and in the event of an open rupture the combination would be Kirkpatrick and MacKenzie with Spear in the minority. It is plain, therefore, that there is too much at stake to permit any probability of Kirkpatrick's leaving the board, and that reason alone is sufficient to preclude his candidacy.

FIKSK'S POSITION.

Speaker Arthur Fisk will return from the East tonight and there is little doubt that the next few days will find his name officially withdrawn from the contest. Fisk is only not seeking the nomination—he is doing his level best to prevent his name being used in that connection. In the first place, he does not want to be Mayor but prefers to run for Congress, feeling satisfied that he can win back to Republicanism the district held so long by Loud and can keep it in the party fold. Then, again, both he and his friends do not feel that he is fitted for a Mayoralty campaign. That particular place should go to a man directly qualified for it by business experience, or who has been identified with the interests of the city in a public way. Fisk's political career has not been of that order, for a member of the Legislature operates in an entirely different sphere and does his work upon lines that identify him more with State life and progress than local surroundings.

THE SCHMITZ SITUATION.

With Kirkpatrick, Fisk, Slack and Kellogg out of the way, therefore, where can the Republicans turn? It is no use taking up any of their former candidates, especially so as they have been beaten in the past and in fact for the past ten years. This alone proves that they must look in some other direction, and as they gaze around the situation shows them nothing but Schmitz in sight.

Had it not been for Schmitz' trip to the East in behalf of Hearst's Congressional candidacy, he would doubtless have had an easy task to land the Republican nomination. That particular incident sticks in the craw, though, of the dyed-in-the-wool Republicans, and although the Schmitz people are explaining it away by saying that he went there on labor lines, they will not reconcile themselves to the idea.

Then there is the element that holds that it would be better for the Republicans to go down to defeat with a standard-bearer of their own party rather than make the concession to labor that would be rendered inevitable by the acceptance of Schmitz. There is a great deal of strength in the ranks of those who preach this crusade, and it will be a formidable blockade for Schmitz to cope with. No matter what happens he cannot remove it altogether, and even though the Republicans nominate him he will lose many a hundred party votes for this reason alone.

While acknowledging such phases of the situation, the Schmitz people say that they have arguments that more than offset anything against the Mayor. In the first place, they insist that his Republicanism as an individual cannot be questioned. The records show that he was one long before he was nominated for Mayor by the Primary League and they declare that at no time did he waver in his allegiance to the party. On the contrary, they point to his public declaration of Republicanism at the Union League Club gathering last year and to his many other acts showing the trend of his political feelings.

As a Mayor, they ask who will cast the first stone at his record. The labor element, according to its statements, is satisfied with him because of his acknowledgment of unionism in his official acts and appointments, while capital can not complain inasmuch as he has been ultra-conservative in all situations where the financial and commercial interests of the city were involved.

The strong point they make is as to the opportunity that exists to name a Republican candidate who will run on the platform of that party and still secure the labor vote. While they admit that schism exists in the union ranks, they insist that Schmitz is on the majority end of it and would be accorded the support of the Simonpure wage earners, especially so if the Labor party does not name a candidate of its own contingency by no means likely.

THE LEAGUE IN CONTROL.

And while these arguments are being made and the mouth-to-mouth missionary work for Schmitz is in progress, the United Republican League goes on with its work of organization all over the town. The boom with which each of the district clubs is launched shows at most conclusively that the League will be in full control of the next convention, for although opposition clubs are springing up in nearly every district, they are lamentably weak of support.

Lack of central organization is what is going to render incompetent the efforts of the opposition, for it is all on a seesaw-basis without any acknowledged leaders or headquarters. Colonel Burns has gone to Mexico, Martin Kelly has no backer in building up an alliance for him like he had last year and disintegration is in evidence in all parts of the opposition camp.

The League will, therefore, unquestionably have things all its own way when the convention comes around, and although its operations continue to be conducted upon the original lines of no candidate for Mayor or anything else, there is but one answer to the question of who is going to get the nomination. Many do not like to admit it and some will not but away down deep in their hearts they know what every one knows who has been watching these latter-day developments—that the tide is running fast in Mayor Schmitz' direction and that there is no way to stem it, principally because there appears to be no available man to bring out against him.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Judge Hughes of Sacramento was in town yesterday en route home from Del Norte county, where he has been trying a case for the past couple of weeks. The judge went to Crescent City, via Grants Pass, Oregon, and took the 110-mile stage ride to Del Norte. He says it was a grand trip, the mountains being one mass of wild flowers, while the ride through the woods was equal in scenic grandeur to anything in the State. Judge Hughes in order to see the country on both sides, took a 100-mile stage ride from Crescent City to Eureka on the return trip and came to town by steamer.

Senator Tyrrell of Grass Valley was down for a couple of days during the week.

The many friends of Judge Peter Shields of Sacramento will be grieved to hear that his infant son died Wednesday of this week.

Woodward of Santa Rosa is back from his Eastern trip. He went to the middle States in the interests of Sonoma county, and met with much success in every direction.

The San Diego Sun recently contained the following personal: "Attorney David L. Withington has about decided to remove with his family of wife and six boys to Honolulu, where he has received a flattering offer to become a partner in one of the largest law firms there." Senator Withington has been quite prominent in politics of late years in the southern end of the State.

Collector of the Port Stratton is still confined to his residence by the fever that attacked him after his return from the Orient. While not serious, the malady has been lingering and has necessitated giving up all business for the past couple of weeks. He is improving satisfactorily, however, and the reports of his condition are eminently favorable.

Deputy United States Attorney Ed Banning is back from an official trip to Del Norte, where he went to attend to some allotment proceedings.

Senator George C. Perkins will leave for the East towards the close of this week. He will be accompanied by his daughter, Miss Fanny Perkins.

United States Attorney Woodworth is back at his office after a stage of illness brought on by overwork.

Guy Barnum of Los Angeles is in town, keeping in as close touch as possible with his prospects for the Bank Commission.

WILL CLOSE FOR ALTERATIONS.

THE DEWEY WILL BE ENTIRELY
REBUILT AND RE-OPENS IN SEPTEMBER.

When the Pacific Coast Vaudeville Company first took hold of the Dewey Theater about a month ago their first decision was to remodel the building entirely, making an entirely new playhouse of it and to put only first class attractions at popular prices and in this way give Oakland a first class vaudeville theater. Their first intention was to make the alterations and improvements gradually so as not to interfere with the nightly performance but it has become plainly apparent that this cannot be done, consequently the Dewey will be closed after Sunday evening until September.

This will give the new managers of the building some two months and a half in which to make the projected alterations and it will take all of that time to do it. The changes and improvements are to be radical in nature and when completed no one will recognize the old Dewey in the building. All of the plans and specifications for the alterations and improvements have been approved and a number of the contract have already been let. The balance will be let early next week and the work commenced at once.

The present gallery is to be torn out and a new one built in accordance with the latest and most approved ideas. It will extend about twenty-five feet near the stage and will reach to the boxes on the two sides. The seats in the gallery are to be relegated to the wood pile and new folding seats installed which will make it comfortable and pleasant. The whole of the lower floor is to be re-arranged. It will be newly carpeted and all of the seats will be folding opera chairs, such as are used in the first class theatres of the large Eastern cities. The boxes will also come in for their share of attention. They will be entirely re-arranged with the view of making them easy and comfortable. All of the walls are to be covered and frescoed.

The stage is to be entirely changed and made to conform in plan and arrangement with those of the large Eastern theatres. In fact it is to be entirely rebuilt. The curtain will go straight up instead of being tripped up at present. It has also been planned to tear out the front of the building and rebuild it with an entirely new arrangement of the lobby and box office. The ladies waiting room will also receive due attention. The entire building is to be re-decorated and new lights put in.

The house will reopen about the first part of September under the management of the Pacific Coast Vaudeville Company and will present first class attractions with an entire change of bill every Monday night.

ATTACKED BY LEOPARD.

NEW YORK, June 20.—Madame Morelle, trainer of wild animals, has been nearly killed by a 6-year-old leopard which she was training in one of the cages of an animal show at Coney Island. The animal leaped on her back from above and before it could be driven off had torn and scratched the woman almost fatally. Madame Morelle was finally rescued by men, who fought the beast off with a pickfork.

LOOK FOR SETTLEMENT.

LOWELL, Mass., June 19.—The great textile strike, which began here three months ago, is thought to be nearing the end. The leaders of the striking textile workers admit that a letter containing a proposal for a conference with a view to settling about a settlement has been sent to the mill agents. Meetings of every union will be called before Sunday to take action upon the question of returning to work.

EXPLOSION IN THE TUNNEL.

FIVE MEN KILLED AND MANY INJURED UNDER BOSTON HARBOR.

BOSTON, June 20.—An explosion of compressed air occurred early today in one of the air locks of the tunnel under the harbor to East Boston. Reports as to the number of workmen killed and injured are at variance. The dead may reach five. Half a dozen were severely hurt. The workers at the tunnel say that they fear there were others imprisoned.

A crowd collected around the entrance to the tunnel, in which work was at once suspended. This is the first serious accident which has occurred at the tunnel for some time.

The tunnel between Boston and East Boston, the latter an island, and comprising the first and second wards of the city, is about a mile long and has been in process of construction for several years. It is to be used for passenger and vehicle traffic and when completed probably will form a continuation of the subway system of the city. The only means of direct communication between Boston and East Boston at present is by ferry. The tunnel is being built by the city as a feature of its transportation improvement projects.

AWARDED THE CHILDREN.

NEW YORK, June 20.—General Emil Shafter has been awarded the custody of his two children in Jersey City by Vice-Chancellor Pitney. The fight over the girls has been on ever since last fall, when Mrs. Shafter took them from their father's home at Mount Morris Park. Mrs. Shafter and the children were not in court and her counsel and relatives said they did not know where she was.

BISHOP DEAD.

LONDON, June 20.—The Very Rev. Herbert Vaughan, Cardinal and Archbishop of Westminster, died at midnight.

Cardinal Vaughan was born April 15, 1832. He became Archbishop of Westminster in 1892. He had been ill more than three months. Late in March it was thought he could not survive more than a few days.

OFFERED A GIRL A BOX OF CANDY AND THEN SHOT HER.

NEW YORK, June 20.—Made desperate by the repeated refusals of Olive Foster, a concert hall singer, to marry him, Edward Leets of this city has shot and probably fatally wounded the girl as she sat in the crowded balcony of a music hall in Coney Island. Leets fired two shots at the girl and then turned the weapon upon himself, but it missed fire and he was himself before he could pull the trigger again.

A performance was going on at the time the tragedy took place and the panic-stricken crowd stampeded madly to get out of range of the bullets. When Leets approached the girl as she sat in the balcony he drew, with his left hand, a box of candy. When the girl reached toward it he shot her. She screamed and sank to the floor. Leets fired a second shot, but missed. The upsurge which arose instantly seemed to terrify him and he placed the pistol against his own head. It missed fire and a policeman seized him. He was identified by the victim at the hospital, but refused to make any statement regarding the affair. The bullet lodged near the girl's heart and the doctor's say undoubtedly will cause death.

ESCAPES PUNISHMENT.

NEW YORK, June 20.—When the case of John R. Hoff of Newark, who was accused of larceny to the extent of $18,000 by the Ganzvoort National Bank, was called in court here counsel filed a certificate to the effect that Hoff is now a patient in an asylum. The magistrate dismissed the charge.

When Hoff was arrested a week ago it was asserted that several hundred thousand dollars was involved.

PECULIAR ACCIDENT.

NEW YORK, June 20.—John Edelstein, a wealthy politician, is dead from a peculiar accident. About three weeks ago he dreamed that burglars had entered his home and that one was attacking him with a knife. He sprang out of bed and struck his head on a projection. The shock caused a clot of blood to settle on his brain resulting, in meningitis, which caused death.

"What are you going to do with that plan from the land of the tea box and the corner laundryman, Jenkins? You must have a lot of it. You have been collecting that sort of stuff for years, haven't you?"

"There is a good deal of it, and I have a well defined plan for its use; although I admit that at first I collected it merely to satisfy a whim. It has become a passion now. I propose building a cottage on the Jersey Coast. It may result in a Chinese puzzle but I do not know why a puzzle of this sort would not be acceptable. We have Italian, Dutch, French, English, colonial and various other kinds; one might as well have a conundrum from the brain of the mandarin as from the shadows of Pouterbeaux."

"It will be novel, but are you sure it will not attract too much attention, be out of place and all that?"

"It may be that and more; I trust that it may. One builds a home to satisfy personal desires, or, as you have hinted, affections. One can, of course, subvert within the bare walls of a house, decorations and things that are not directly necessary to sustain life, and one's desires for these things—in a sense unnecessary—may be called affection; yet the indirect influence upon mankind in the gratification of these desires is called civilization. One tries, also, to differ from others in the choice of style and design. If he succeeds the result may be termed out; yet this term does not frighten; it is, rather, interesting. The chief motive of the present project is to attract attention. If a building that is strange or novel will do this so much the better."

"But, my dear chap, the Chinese is so overdone with ornament. Architects are telling us that we should curtail our desires in that direction, maintain the simple and severe lines rather than the ill-greased ornament."

"To be sure, there are self-appointed reformers in the profession of architecture. Some lean toward simplicity, while others go in for ornamental extremes, both believing that each is the advocate of the 'correct' in his line. There can be no judgment and taste shown in either direction, as the experienced architect is aware. He does not overload with ornament the structure that, either through limitations of cost or purpose, does not require it or upon which it would look out of place. For the extreme purist cannot deny that the building of large cost and of certain character may have the 'ill-grease of ornament.' Time has proved that there cannot be too much ornament when it is properly used. Taste will dictate when its use should be curbed. If you look at the drawing, or elevation, that I have had prepared for the cottage you will see a structure not unlike buildings common in various parts of our country, yet it is almost an exact copy of one of the gate towers of Ping Yang. The double roofs, with their tiles and bannias, have been modernized so that the cost of construction will be moderate. A chimney has been added with a roof-covered ornament at the top. A wide porch is also a feature not found in the original. Although 'Chinese taste' is shown in the decorations, so far as a limited purse and modern requirements will permit, yet you cannot say that the house is 'overloaded with ornament.'"

"No, there is not much evidence of overloading here. It is quite a logical and reasonable proposition. In fact, I rather like it—cool, sunny and promising of good results within. But is it going to be expensive?"

"There you go, the calculating spirit of the day. How can art thrive in such an atmosphere? But I will satisfy your mercenary cravings. The cost of the building will not be above $2,500, not including the carving and decorations upon the walls of the interior. This will be done by the day, and will cost probably $1,000 more. I have not taken the advice of Ruskin, I shall have to admit, and some things are not what they seem. For instance, the carving upon the walls will be of plaster, colored to represent wood. In some cases, as you know, I have the genuine Chinese carving, the gilded archway from near the Kien-chu River, the lacquered arch from Tung-chu. These I shall use, of course, introducing in plaster others to go with them. These arches, by the way, cost the magnificent sum of $800 last winter at one of the sales of temple ornaments held in Fifth avenue."

"You have the knack of discovering that the bargain is it looks as though you are going to turn it to practical use. I am beginning to think that your cottage will not be so much of a Chinese puzzle after all. It is more homogeneous than many more expensive, when the motif is a matter of conjecture rather than an established certainty."

"Familiar styles grow tiresome. A house should possess uniformity, however, or, as you say, a concrete sentences in all parts that will admit of that term 'motif' being used in connection with it. If it pretends to have style, or the motif predominate. That is good judgment. The builder may adapt style to conditions, but he should preserve form and proportion. When he undertakes to blend or mix styles the result is invariably bad, if a person wishes to build a house, however elaborate or however modest it is to be, he would do well to read first Ruskin's 'Seven Lamps of Architecture.' He may not agree in all things with the author, but at least he will conclude that it is wise to consider carefully before building."

"In the specification for my cottage hemlock timbers are called for in the rough dry construction, while chestnut will be the wood for the exterior—roof beams, hand rails, door and window sills, flooring, etc. The structure will be half timbered with rough plastered walls, laid upon a plaster board and stained, in the mixing a deep buff color. The porch walls and posts will be made of common field stones, with moss and lichens left on. If this is done with the idea of simulating a huge, roughly constructed wall, it will give to the building that look of age and solidity. A good stain will be used to give the outer woodwork a weathered appearance. The chimney will be of brick, matching in color and appearance the red tiles of the roof. You will observe by the floor plan that the porch runs entirely around the house. The cellar will extend to the foundation walls of the building. It will have a flooring of concrete and be divided with partitions of wood into laundry, coal bin, etc. The walls, which are also the foundations of the building, are covered with a plaster of paris upon the outside. A dry cellar is a positive necessity in a summer cottage, and particularly in the city, to keep out steam and furnace heat."

"The floor plan of the lower story provides for five rooms—a dining room, living room, kitchen, parlor and servants' room. The hall is wide and has a large unoccupied space in the front where wet and chilly evenings may be spent. In the back of the hall and under the stairs is a secluded library or den. A low fireplace will occupy one end of this enclosure, with a bookcase, and a chair and a table. The Chinese workmanship which I have will furnish it. The woodwork in the hall will be a copy of that upon the porch of the Temple of Confucius, in Peking. The walls are rough plastered, as will be the ceiling, and the floor will be of oak, as well as all of the woodwork here and in the living room."

"Your commendable ingenuity will want to learn what the articles I have mentioned are, but are shown in the hall sketch. I am sure you will buy them cheaply one must have time and patience. With these requirements in New York, buy them with a moderate purse. The bookcase cost me $15. It is of iron wood, and was very shiny when got it, but this is often a fault of teakwood furniture. I was rather pleased than otherwise, for I did not have got it for that price. I had not been in the country for long and I cost me $18, while the table cost me $28.50. The lantern, known as a Tenta, or heavenly lantern, cost $6.75, while the Japanese bronze, which is shown by the sketch, cost $10. I think the best of it, it cost $25. All of these articles and those in the sketches of other rooms were picked up at auction sales in Fifth avenue and further down town. I can, of course, obtain plenty of Japanese furniture in the regular way, as well as Chinese, but it will cost considerably more than these articles have cost me."

"In China there are three forms of religion—Taoism, Buddhism and Confucianism. Each seems to have in architecture a style of its own. The 'cat and table' in the den are said to have come from a Taoist temple, while the bookcase in the hall is said to be Buddhist. The chair which is seen under the stairs, but he called Confucian, and the architect of the room is, as far as it conforms with the original, also Confucian. The lantern and bronze tree, under the stairs, are of the Shintoist period. Many variations in styles or periods of architecture are often repeated, and for that reason may be classed under misstyle or subperiod. They are quite marked in their difference, yet in general outline they are beyond question of some particular master style. For instance, the Tuscan, Doric, Ionic and so on, with their adaptations; the Italian, Elizabethan, Norman, Gothic, in architecture and the colonial, French, Italian, Swiss, with the various times and periods in furniture. When the variations are not too marked they may be combined, yet this is not always advisable. If one wishes to have a French house, then all things French may go into it, but the indistinguishable mingling of periods should be avoided. There could be, with good taste, an Empire room, a Louis XVI. room, and so on through the gamut of French periods. In the case of my cottage I shall try to carry out this plan. In the living room I have tried, as far as my collection will permit, to make all of the fittings of one period, but with the collector this cannot always be done, and if the house is in the main of a certain style it will be satisfactory."

"You do not mean that such a house as you have drawn up can only be built by the collector of curios?"

"By no means. We are all collectors, but many are satisfied with the commonplace things that are easily obtained. You are envious of my cottage on account of its novelty, yet it is not unobtainable on that account. Anyone can have a Chinese cottage as easily as I can, and at little cost. The set of furniture in the living room cost $60 and the cabinet cost $85 more. The furniture and the table are not Chinese, but they are good ebony facsimiles, and must have cost considerable at one time. I got them second hand. The cabinet is a genuine importation. It is teakwood. The small tabourets at the door are Chinese red and black lacquer. They cost $3 for the two. There is also a teakwood stand in the corner that, together with the gourd-shaped mustard yellow vase, cost $13.75. A duplicate of the lacquered temple arch from Tung-chu is to be made for the other side of the door facing the hall. The draperies and hangings are the most expensive. To obtain pairs you must go to the dealers. I paid for the pair of portières—two are not made for door hangings, by the way—$65. Come in next week and I will have some more drawings and will tell you more about the plans for my Chinese cottage."

Statistics Of Wealth.

Recent statistics show that if the wealth of the various countries were to be divided equally among their inhabitants Frenchmen would be richer than any other persons, and Bulgarians would be poorer.

A Frenchman would have $37.28; a Siamese, $34.88; a citizen of the United States, $23.41; an Austrian, $8; a Russian, $6.23; a German, $10.92; a Serbian, $2.72; an Englishman, $18.29; a Turk, $3.72; a Japanese, $3.09; a Spaniard, $25.98; an Italian, $9.63; a South African, $27.62, and a Bulgarian, $1.01.

Doylies Embroidered In Rich Colors.

BY CLARA L. KELLOGG.

These plat' doilies have two smaller sizes for large and butter use and are water glasses with 24-inch centers. These are intended for use on a polished table. The general design in white round thread linen, wrought in the center, is especially pretty for a salad set. The plat' doilies 12 inches in diameter, bread and butter size, and tumblers five inches; these sizes allow the stirring of the embroidery outside of the covered part, giving the green a delightfully crisp effect. Foliage of geraniums, in shaded South Kensington work, blends of palest green into the darkest of the shaded greens, with stems of the darkest shade, in a beautiful stitch. The open work leaves of white silk have their edges of hatteriole a stitch, with lace stitch for centers, from which underneath the linen has been cut, forming a beautiful effect in open work.

The dinner on Shanghai linen is of the royal chrysanthemum—square plate doily or serviette, with thirty-four inch square center to match. Design taken from the royal robes of the Chinese Emperor, showing the conventional chrysanthemum. Colorings of the country, golds, blues, greens and black. Corner disk of chrysanthemum flowers, in the Oriental combing stitch in shades of steel blues outlined with black, leaves in shades of olives in lace stitch; extreme corners blooms in shades of gold in basket stitch with crossings of the various shades and tiny forests of the center in shades of argent, in satin stitch, each having a pale green French knot for its center. Each part of the whole design banded with black silk outlining.

The other dolly design of round thread white linen is wrought in a Greek design, in iridescent colorings of blue and green. Each section wrought by itself in the blue or green, and all in oriental combing stitch, but catchings or markings of little squares are in old rose twisted silk, and each section of the designs outlined with this old rose, and of the formed of old rose buttonholing, with linen cut and run neatly back underneath. If one did not care for a luncheon set of this on white linen, it is pretty in a green; brown or natural linen, and in the dark, iridescent threads of colorings goes well as a table mat with floor coverings of Turkish rugs in self-same colorings as the stitching.

Observances Of St. John's Eve.

Outside the Saints' Calendar, St. John's Eve, or Midsummer Night, which meant so much to our forefathers, goes practically unnoticed among the great majority of their descendants. We are not so poetic as people of a former generation. We have grown prosaic and liberal with the years, and the old beliefs, such as that Queen Mab and her maidens danced in the meadows under the moonlight and left magic circles of the dewy grass, that Oberon ruled his court with a fairy rod, that spectral horsemen cantered down the high roads and whirled circumnavigated the air on broomsticks are only left to the very young or extremely credulous.

The maid of sentiment, however, still clings to any rite that promises to give a hint as to the personality of the coming man, and at many of the girls' colleges St. John's Eve is duly celebrated along the same lines as those detailed in the Compendium, an English publication of two centuries ago. "I and my two sisters," runs the account, "tried the dumb cake together. You must know, two must make it, two bake it, two break it and the third put it under each of their pillows (but you must not give it word all the time), and then you will learn of the man you are to have. This we did, and to be sure I did nothing all night but dream of Mr. Blossom. The same night, exactly at 12 o'clock, I sowed hem seed in our backyard and said to myself: 'If I sowed I sowed, hemseed I hoe, and he that is my true love come after me and mow.' Will you believe it? I looked back and saw him as plain as my eyes could see him. Our maid Betty tells me that if I go backward without speaking a word into the garden upon a Midsummer Eve and gather a rose and keep it in a clean sheet of paper without soiling it at all Christmas Day it will be as fresh as in June, and if I then stick it into my bosom he that is to be my husband will come and take it out."

On custom was to go out in the fields or wood and gather plants and flowers said to possess supernatural properties, such as St. John's wort, trefoil, vervain and the rose. A yellow colored verbenaceous plant called orpine was plucked by anxious maidens and stuck in pieces of cloth set on stakes in their houses. This was known as the "Midsummer Man," and, according to the way he was found in the next morning, the young women could tell whether their lovers were faithful or not.

The tiny seeds on the back of the fern, which were believed to endure their possessors with their own lability, were eagerly sought for by young men and women who wished to see the object of their affections without being seen. The task of procuring these almost invisible seeds was a difficult one, as to retain their virtue they must not be touched by human fingers.

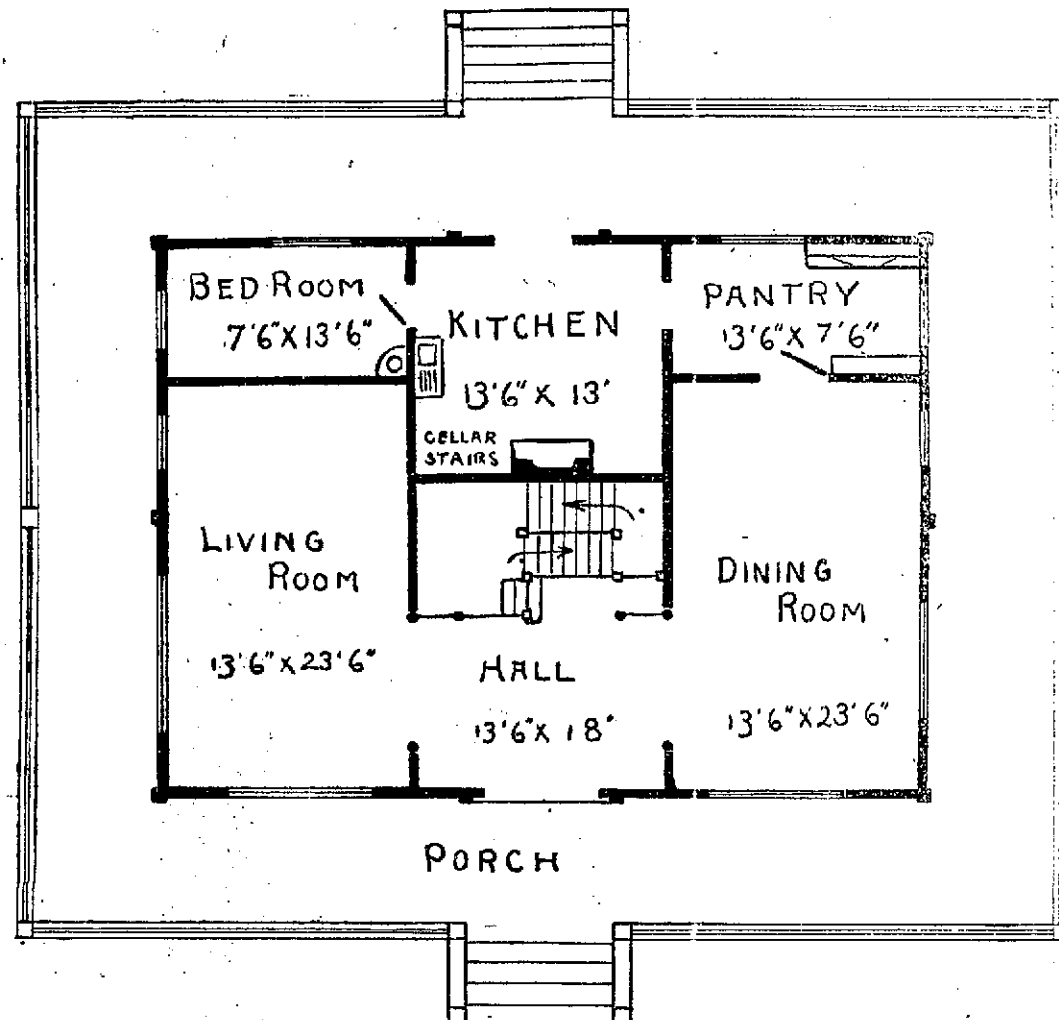

Among the Greeks of Thessaly and Albania a curious ceremony called the "Kithonion" takes place on St. John's Eve. At sunset a large jar of water is placed in the garden, and around it the family assemble, each one throwing in a leaf or flower, accompanying it with a wish and a dance. The jar is then carefully covered with a linen cloth, and the youngest of the party goes through the ceremony of "locking" it with the house key. The jar is then set aside until the next day at noon, when the family assemble for the "unlocking." The linen is removed, and each goes in and takes a drink of water from the bowl. Singing is kept up all the time—improvised couplets to induce special popularity.

A general sprinkling of these wishes, the young people making each other with wishes of water from the bowl. Singing is kept up all the time—improvised couplets to induce special popularity.

In Macedonia the ceremony varies a little in that only the girls and unmarried women are allowed to participate.

One of the number is sent to fill a large jar of water at the public fountain, with the injunction not to open her lips until her return, no matter who may stand nearby. Into this jar each girl drops some small object, which is called the kithonion. A wish is then tied carefully over the mouth of the jar, which is left out at night and in the morning the young men of the neighborhood do not find it and possess themselves of the contents. It is opened the following evening at sunset, when one of the girls, clothed in eyes, plunges her hand into the water and fishes out the objects one by one. During this operation she is required to recite certain distichs, which serve as prophecies or disappointing auguries as to the matrimonial prospects of the owner of the article drawn out.

After supper the bonfire, which is always

Ages Of Living Rulers.

Emperor William of Germany recently said he was one of the youngest sovereigns of Europe, yet there are seven rulers who are younger than he is. They are the King of Spain, seventeen years of age; the Queen of Holland, twenty-three; the King of Serbia, twenty-seven; the King of Italy, thirty-four; the Czar of Russia, thirty-five; the King of Portugal, forty; and the Prince of Bulgaria, forty-two. Emperor William comes next, being forty-five years old, an after him come the King of Greece, fifty years; the Sultan of Turkey, sixty-one; the Prince of Montenegro, sixty-two; King Edward of England, sixty-two; the King of Roumania, sixty-four; the King of Belgium, sixty-eight; Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria, seventy-three; the King of Sweden and Norway, seventy-four; the King of Denmark, eighty-five; and the Grand Duke of Luxembourg, eighty-six.

The Presidents of Republics are, with few exceptions, comparatively young. The Presidents of Salvador and Paraguay are one forty-one years old. President Casto is forty-three. President Roosevelt is forty-four. The President of Nicaragua is fifty-one. The ruler of Bolivia is fifty-four, the President of Honduras and Peru are each fifty-six. A Lombet is sixty-five and the President of Colombia is sixty-six.

THEATRICAL BILLS ON BOTH SIDES OF THE BAY.

Nance O'Neil at the Macdonough Theater

—New Bill for Idora Park Playhouse—

Other Plays Scheduled.

At 26 years of age, Nance O'Neil, a California girl, in the heyday of her youth, in the possession of unquestioned beauty, with a powerful physique and having received the acclamations of the entire English-speaking world, stands at the top-most peak of fame as one of the greatest tragediennes on the stage. New York first sounded the story of her greatness. London raved over her and admitted that she was the peer of Ristori, Mary Anderson and Bernhardt, and the recital of her Australian tour reads like an ovation to a sovereign. Today she is one of the greatest and most entrancing figures on the stage and being a daughter of the State, it is but natural that all Californians should feel a thrill of exultation at the magnificence of her triumphs and take pride in her world-recognized emotional and dramatic genius.

The catastrophe, which terminated her engagement in San Francisco through the burning of the Theater Republic, forced her manager to make a short tour of California cities in order to fill in time, as the theatrical saying has it, until arrangements could be made for securing another house in San Francisco. As a consequence, the famous young tragedienne will appear here with her entire metropolitan support, including the noted McKee Rankin and also E. J. Ratcliffe. The production will be as elaborate as that given to it in New York City and the role of Florio Posen is one which best serves to display Miss O'Neil's masterful emotional ability.

Miss O'Neil played to a large house here last evening. She plays again tonight.

EXCELLENT BILL AT IDORA PARK

A new bill is scheduled to appear next week at Idora Park Theater, the most popular place of amusement in Oakland. A number of famous Eastern artists have been engaged, who cannot fail to keep the audience thoroughly interested and amused.

Dick Mack, the well-known comedian, does a splendid act, his role being that of a tramp, comprising monologue, singing and dancing, but spinning, etc.

Carmelia, the graceful and pretty Spanish dancer, makes her initial bow. She is a dancer of the Carmenita type, her wardrobe being costly and gorgeous.

Little Irene, the juvenile vocalist, will easily win the approval and applause of all. She is pretty and captivating and a star in her particular line.

The Misses Bruce and Rosa have been retained by popular desire. They are ideal acrobatic and contortion dancers, and this coming week will give an entire change of songs, dances, etc.

Harry Sylvester has easily sang himself into the hearts of Idora Park visitors and his every entrance is the signal for tumultuous applause. He introduces all the latest and best of songs.

The many attractions scattered over the grounds of Idora Park are a source of amusement for the old as well as the young, and that it is the most successful and best conducted amusement resort in this section is evidenced by the large attendance.

Fourth of July will be a gala day. Extra attractions have been secured and in the evening there will be a display of fireworks well worth going a long way to see. Designs new, novel and original will be set off, and on the whole, it will be one of the best displays ever seen on this coast. Friday is amateur night.

NEW FACES AT THE NOVELTY.

Commencing next Monday the Novelty Theater will present some of the new artists recently engaged by Manager Lubelski during his recent visit East. There will be an new vaudeville stars, who have never before appeared on this coast. They will play only on the Novelty Circuit. There will also be an entire new set of moving pictures specially selected by the manager and that in no other place will you find the best of the latest given west of the Rockies.

The business at this popular house has been large, the bill the present week being an excellent one. The Novelty and Garry are a laughable knock-about team. Their act pleases people. Al. Hawthorne, the baritone, also made a hit in rendering "The Holy City."

TIVOLI CONTINUES TO DRAW CROWDS

"The Isle of Champagne" is ever increasing nightly at the Tivoli, and the bubbling and sparkling opera is generally enjoyed by the big crowds. The cast individually and collectively has made the opera go with snap and dash, and no dull moments are detected from the rise to the fall of the curtain. Stevens is a host in himself in the role of the monarch of beezie land, and his quips and songs are immensely enjoyed. "The Song of All Nations," "The Imp in the Wine," and "You Can't Fool All the People All the Time" are sung to many encores. Hartman and Webb have funny parts as Meet and Chaudon, who constitute the army of the king, and Cunningham as the villain, Apollinaris, who acts the part to perfection. Carlo Roma is a humorous figure as the spinner of a speculative turn of mind, and Bertha Davis as her niece, does some good singing. Annie Myers is the belle of the land, and has a couple of good scores with Stevens. Oscar Lee joins well as the prince. "The Isle of Champagne" will run all the coming week, and possibly longer. The next production will be the famous comic opera, "Madeline, or the Magic Kiss," with Edwin Stevens in the role of the Baron Grimal.

"IN WASHINGTON" A GREAT DRAWING CARD.

"In Washington" will complete its third week at the Grand Opera House tomorrow night. It continues to draw crowded houses, and the enthusiasm of the audiences seems to increase with each performance. Tomorrow, Sunday night, it will enter on the fourth and last week of its run. The new specialties and songs have proved very successful. Raymond and Gavery have made great hits with their new parodies and witticisms, and Chicadell Simpson has caught the town with her charming "Gone With Love Song." Harold Brown, the comedian, will also appear.

MISS NANCE O'NEIL, WHO APPEARS AT THE MACDONOUGH THEATER TONIGHT.

Moore and the other members of the company maintain their great popularity. The next production at this theater will be the musical comedy "In Central Park," the entire original production as used by the Rogers Bros. during their long run at the Knickerbocker Theater, New York. It will be put on for a run commencing Sunday evening, June 28th.

ALCAZAR MANAGES TO HAVE GOOD PLAYS.

The Alcazar has scored another artistic triumph in "Puddinhead Wilson," the immensely successful production of the Mark Twain drama, coupled with the fact that the capacity of the theater has been taxed to the limit and that there is an absolute demand for the continuance of the famous play, has induced the management to favor the public with the second week of the magnificent performance. While Whittelsey has repeated his distinguished Eastern success in the title role, and San Francisco critics pay him the unqualified honor of saying that his interpretation of the difficult role of "Puddinhead" is not only another remarkable exhibition of his versatility, but that it would have done credit to Frank Mayo, the creator of the part. The presentation of the play is artistic in every way, and in the highest sense, and the excellent Alcazar company has simply demonstrated once again its uniform cleverness. The piece is staged with a genuine perfection of detail, nothing being omitted to render "Puddinhead Wilson," a transcendently great attraction. Charles Wingate makes his reappearance at the Alcazar in his cast and has received a royal welcome from his host of admirers. Bertha Creighton's Roxie is an interpretation of rare merit and Oza Walden has won fresh laurels in the part of Roxie. All the Alcazar favorites are in the cast, and "Puddinhead Wilson" will do a record breaking business all next week.

CURTIS APPEARS AT CENTRAL THEATER.

"Sam'l of Posen," with the inimitable comedian, M. B. Curtis, in his famous comedy, "The Greenhorn," is a delight to audiences at the Central Theater. It is a treat that an amusement lover cannot afford to miss. With next Monday night comes "The Central Theater," and it is a building of a new kind, saying, "Laugh and grow fat," there will be a necessary increase in the number of all who see it; for if there is any more mirth-provoking comedy than "The Greenhorn," or any more comical genius or more clever comedian in his class of work than M. B. Curtis, he has yet to come to light. As a laugh-provoker he is a masterpiece in the part of Moebe Peterson, in his newest play. His provocation to laughter is continuous, so rapidly do his comicalities follow each other. There is hardly any noticeable intermission between the laughs. Of course there is a little low-thread woven into the play, bringing in just that degree of the pathetic to lend color and tone to the lighter strains, but even in the most serious situations there is ever present the infectious mirth produced by Curtis' comicalities, which break out when least expected, about every fifteen seconds, while he occupies the stage. For all such performance, "The Greenhorn" is the story of the vicissitudes of a young immigrant who is robbed of all of his cash by sharpers as soon as he lands. When the government officials are about to deport him he manages to slip away and enter New York. Just before entering port some diamond smugglers conceal their gems in the back of an old portrait, which the "Greenhorn" has in his luggage. After he lands the smugglers endeavor to get back their goods, but the "Greenhorn" sticks fast to the portrait, not knowing why the sharpers seek to possess it. His frantic efforts to keep the picture are humorous as well as pathetic. Finally the revenue officers are attracted to the matter, and the Government gets the diamonds, but the "Greenhorn" has his own compensations in ways that will be best enjoyed from seeing the play itself. "The Greenhorn" should play to standing room only all next week, and hence tickets should be ordered early. As the French say, "It is to laugh."

WATER DRINKING.

A recent report to the London county council asserts that water drinking is decreasing in that city. The expert who makes the report says that the common practice of providing water bottles in offices, board rooms and at public meetings must be regarded rather as throwing light upon the habits of a past generation of Londoners than as indicating that cold water is largely consumed. He might have added, say a London newspaper, that in the house of commons a glass of water as an aid to eloquence has largely fallen into disuse. But the most illuminating observation is that among common lodging house inmates cold water is looked upon as a medicine and in only exceptional instances is it resorted to as a means of quenching thirst.

Until comparatively recent times there was a medical practice against drinking water. Sir William Vaughan in his "Natural and Artificial Directions for Health" declared that water "ought seldom to be drunk." Another doctor admitted that it might be healthful for children, but not for men—except some odd abstemious one among a thousand, perchance, degenerate and of a dogish nature, for dogs of nature do abhor wine. Indeed, the recommendation of water as a beverage was supposed to be the sign of the quack. Even Wesley, in his "Primitive Physics," wrote of it with caution: "Drink only water if it agrees with your stomach; if not good, clear small beer."

Sir Francis Drake of Queen Elizabeth's day took peculiar pride in the fact that he gave a splendid supply of water to Plymouth by building a conduit from Burrator, twenty miles away. And every year Plymouth celebrates the old sea dog's work of beneficence by a municipal pilgrimage to the fountain-head on Dartmoor. The mayor fills an ancient silver goblet with the pure water and it is drunk "to the pious memory of Sir Francis Drake." Then the goblets are refilled with wine and emptied to the time-honored toast, "May the descendants of him who gave us water never want wine."

JUDGE WOULD NOT TAKE THE WORD OF WOMAN.

"Gentleman is Just a Gentle Man" Says Betty Martin—How to Tell a Joiner.

BY BETTY MARTIN.

Recently, in San Francisco, a judge refused to believe two women under oath as to their identification of a male assailant. He dismissed the charge, saying that he did not want to take the chances of sending an innocent man to State Prison. The judge also took occasion to say that he would not believe any woman under oath where her personal feelings or interests were at stake. This seems pretty much like the pot calling the kettle black. However, it is a pretty sure thing that women, like men, are no better than they should be under such circumstances, and often swear falsely to gratify personal interests or enemies. Repentance sometimes follows, as in the case of the Fox woman who testified against Al Hulse, and who, now that his liberty and perhaps life is endangered, says that she swore falsely. How can a judge or a jury discriminate?

Such instances are common, both among men and women, but is there any reason to believe that women more than men, are perjurers?

Ever since the engagement and marriage to the late Hugh Tevis, his widow, Miss Cornelia Baxter that was, has been a much talked-about woman. All has been dramatic, from start to the finish which is not yet. From time to time reports as to the lady's engagement to marry again gets into print, and Mrs. Tevis promptly denies all such statements. She has put herself on record in regard to the last affair, in a little speech which might have appropriately been made in relation to one of Charlie Hoy's old-time farces. According to a telegram from New York, Mrs. Tevis says: "The report that I am to wed again is screamingly funny so far as I am concerned. Isn't 'screamingly funny' as applied to marriage, just 'too cute' for anything? It deserves to rank with 'innocuous deseculation.' 'It is a far cry,' and 'The strenuous life—' only, of course, its use will be confined strictly to that class of people suffering from 'nervous prosperity.'"

A remarkable tribute to the increased business of Oakland is evidenced by the number of flats recently put up, and by the many others in course of construction. Because of their convenience and proximity to the centers of trade, these flats are frequently rented before completion. Men doing business in town are particularly glad to be able to live within walking distance of home, where they can lunch in comfort without having to pay out car-fare, as well as lose time getting there. Leaving children and dogs out of the question, flats are admirable places to live in, for they mean a reduction of the housewife's labor. Except in coming in or going out, there are absolutely no stairs to climb. The door is opened by simply turning a handle in the hall, and in case of peddlers and other undesirable callers, communication is held by means of a speaking-tube leading to the front of the house. Ashes are let down a slide, and smoke escapes by means of a flue built over the kitchen range. In fact, the good things to be said about flats are innumerable, but they are not much more desirable places for children than are hotels. No man or woman of family ever lived in a flat because of a particular liking for that sort of habitation, but because of its convenience, proximity to schools or business, and kindred other reasons, the chief objection being the fact that try as he may, no architect has ever yet succeeded in so muffling sound that the pattering of little feet cannot be heard, and as to excluding the tones of a piano or any other musical instrument, that is at present outside the realms of possibility.

People with children need houses with yards for them to run in and expand their lungs, but sad to say, few houses are being put up with a view to rental. Landlords evince a decided preference for building flats. The reason is not far to seek—they are more remunerative as an investment, and they exclude people with families to a large extent. Perhaps in the end it will work for good, for parents of children will be forced into buying homes of their own.

"A gentleman is just a gentle man," nothing more or less. We do not expect, nor would we perhaps desire our conductors and motormen to be modern Caesars, and they might, one and all, with very little effort, succeed in being gentlemen. Many of them, in fact, the majority of them are so at heart, but in every other class, there are exceptions—notably the men who stand impatiently dinging and clanging the bell while some elderly man or woman tries to get on or off, or a woman, hampered with babies and bundles tries to make haste. A helping hand in such cases would often facilitate matters, and would be the source of much gratitude as well as very little trouble.

An Oakland lady recently returned from Los Angeles remarked upon the unfailing politeness of the street car employees in that city, and spoke rather disparagingly of certain experiences with Oakland carmen.

Again street-car employees should be well-informed in regard to all streets in the city. Last week a conductor on the San Pablo line took two ladies—strangers, who were hunting for Hanven street—clear out to Berkeley, instead of letting them out at Thirty-fourth street as he should have done, with a few simple directions as to their way.

Do you know that you can tell a "joiner" by the way he walks? All you have to do is to watch him turn a corner. If he makes a slovenly turn to the right or left, he is not your man, but if he turns at a good clearly defined angle, he is pretty apt to be a "joiner," and the reason of his walk is not hard to discover. It is a fact that the majority of lodge officials are something of sticklers in regard to marching, and sharp corners are invariably insisted upon. Now a "joiner," as everybody knows is a man who belongs to many secret societies, and the military way of turning an angle fastens itself upon him at home or abroad. It isn't a bad habit, either, but one which might well be instilled into everybody. It indicates for one thing, thoroughness. Take a woman, for instance—the one who turns a street corner with precision is apt to keep the dark corners of her house clean, while the one who makes a slovenly turn is more than likely to let the dirt congregate in one of the way places.

Again, there are people who habitually cross streets cat-a-corner fashion. You may be sure that those who do so belong to one of two classes—either they shirk direct responsibility or they have decided to accomplish certain definite ends, aside from these little tricks peculiar to people, a habitual joiner can always be detected.

Speaking of secret societies and their ways, it isn't likely that the High School boys of New Bedford, Mass., will cling to their old methods much longer, for it seems that two boys are suffering from blood-poisoning as a result of being branded with nitrate of silver and nitric acid. Even should they live, these boys will be disfigured for life. There is a big streak of savagery in boys, and their pre-conceived notions of fun occasionally receives a rude shock, as in this instance.

The forerunner of the joys of the fourth of July were exemplified on Wednesday when two boys were taken to the Emergency Hospital in San Francisco to be treated for wounds received in playing with blank cartridge pistols. Pistols of this sort, as well as bombs, fire-crackers and other noise provokers, should be banished from civilization. Our present manner of celebrating the anniversary of Independence is little short of barbarous. As a matter of fact, all who can possibly do so, flee to the country to escape the noise on that day.

The United States is big enough to stop crowing, and people should be able to enjoy themselves in a more fitting manner than by firing off crackers, blank cartridge pistols and things of that sort.

BETTY MARTIN.

TROUBLE IN THE BROWN FAMILY.

Judge Greene this morning made as even a division of the Brown family consisting of five members, as it was possible to do under the circumstances. The matter came this morning on a petition in the matter of the divorce asked for by Mrs. Alice Brown from her husband Henry Brown, a milkman living at 857 Fifty-eighth street. Brown alleges in an answer to his wife's complaint that she drove off his cows and secreted them at different neighbors' houses.

This morning he appeared in court with his attorney and asked the court to make an order giving him the custody of the children until the divorce proceedings had been finally disposed of. He stated that he wanted the children to live at home with him and help him with his work. The oldest boy went to the father and the two younger children to the mother until the matter is settled.

THE MATINEE GIRL.

There is always a girl at the matinee. She is a chattering girl, and she provides entertainment between the acts for the woman in front of her.

The type varies and this time the girl was one who thought herself well read. She posed as a clever girl, and her opinion, once expressed, could not be shaken.

There was a man with her. He seemed afflicted with a desire to spend money. Huckleberry Finn turned car wheels to impress his lady love. The connection was obvious to the woman in front.

First they discussed the position of the seats. The girl thought they were too near the stage, she didn't like to see the paint and makeup, it left nothing to the imagination.

The man liked to be near the stage. "Wouldn't she have a box?" Oh, no, she didn't like a box; it makes one so conspicuous.

That subject being at length settled, the girl said: "You always like to come so early, why is it?"

"Oh, I don't know; like to see the whole show."

(He missed a chance for a compliment there, soliloquized the woman in front.)

The girl was silent—she was probably

The Latest Fashion Fancies

PARIS FASHION: Embroidered Gowns for Summer Evening

fashion's domain, and yet they are almost without exception, cool looking and dainty, so that it is not surprising after all that this summer again sees them made up in the smartest of gowns. The patterns of the spangles are different from those formerly used, as are also the beads and paillettes. White and silver or black and silver are more fashionable than anything else. The chiffon embroidered with white or black beads mixed with paillettes of silver or the fine just completed with their star shaped spangles woven into the material are really the newest of all and quite a new fancy is the wearing of these spangled gowns over colored linings—the palest blue, yellow or pink of any thin material, with a foundation always of white silk, so that the color is very faint. Accordion plaited dinner and ball gowns for summer are also fashionable as they were in the winter, and in all the light stuffs look especially well. It is by no means an easy matter to trim these skirts, and yet an immense amount of trimming is now put on them, rather in contrast to the perfectly plain accordion plaits of the simpler frocks. Bands and lace entre-deux medallions of lace and always a lace edge to the skirt, varying in width from two inches to a band half a yard deep, are some of the characteristics, and the lace insertion that is finished with an irregular edge is considered for the moment smarter than that with the plain edge. The way in which the points or irregular finish of the lace insertion runs up into the plaits is always effective, so that it is not marvellous that the fashion is a popular one. The effort to introduce the dounced and ruffled skirt is also seen again in this style, and with alternate flounces of lace and plaited chiffon, or whatever the material may be. Gowns made entirely of lace are, of course, fashionable, and always will be, but they are not how so new as these gowns with the combination of lace flounces and accordion plaited ones, and on the low cut waists to wear with the skirts the chiffon and lace are most cleverly combined. When there are sleeves there will be a cap of lace and the lower part of the chiffon will be draped across the front of the waist and the lace will fall over it. In other words, there is a very clever combination of the two materials, which has the ultimate object of showing off to the best possible advantage the lace itself.

The economical woman finds much to be thankful for in this combination of lace and chiffon, for lace jackets can be worn over the chiffon and lace gowns, and will transform a dinner gown into an afternoon gown, as the unlined lace of the jacket simply forms a robe and sleeves without interfering with the effect of the waist itself, and yet disguises it so that when the waist is worn without the jacket it is a smart dinner or ball gown. Let no one, however, delude herself into the belief that a chiffon and lace gown is an inexpensive one. It is one of the luxuries of the times, and while a good investment because it can be renovated and changed in so many different ways, invariably requires an outlay of considerable money.

A. T. ASHMORE.

Every summer when the afternoon and evening gowns are first exhibited there is a universal exclamation at their beauty and daintiness, and this year the murmur has swelled into loud applause, for the materials, the colors and the work are such that even the most blasé of dress enthusiasts cannot refrain from taking an interest in them. For many months there has been an outcry against the over-elaboration in trimming on gowns of every description, but somehow on the thin fabrics intended for summer there do not seem to be any of the overdone effects that are so aptly on the contrary, only an opportunity is furnished to display beautiful handwork, and in spite of all the trimmings, the gowns do not look overdone. This is because their general lines are simple and unbroken, the color all in one tone and everything about the costumes so in keeping and so harmonious as to make them appear understated.

The old-fashioned tambour work is among the most fashionable of any this year and is seen on muslins, linens and silks. A great deal of it is, of course, machine made, but to be really smart it should be worked by hand and the work should be as fine as possible. The designs are precisely the same as they were 20 or 30 years ago, with the same round eyelet holes, the same scalloped edges to the flounces and with little variation of design. The flounced skirts—one, two or three flounces—with the entire waist of embroidery, are smart, simple and expensive. The greatest number of these gowns are in white, but in pale blue or pale pink there are many very charming examples of the fashion. There is a material in machine work of what might be called the newer tambour embroidery, which is the same work, but without the edge. It is sold by the yard and entire gowns are fashioned of it, with only a flounce around the foot of the skirt or with the scalloped edges and the finest of ribbons on the sleeves. There are surprises found on the front of the waist, for a favorite fashion is to use the effect.

Gowns of chiffon and batiste, elaborately trimmed with lace, with lace medallions or with lace ruffles, are made up for afternoon or evening gowns. A simple effect is the law, but the work is anything but simple for the finest of lace and the richest of embroidery are used.

All chiffon and sheer muslins are fashionable for afternoon and evening wear, in light colors as well as in white. The exaggeration of simplicity is seen in some of the designs that have only a shirred yoke around the upper part of the skirt, a shirred yoke around the shoulders if the waist is shirred, and a shirred top to the sleeves. Then below the yoke on the top of the waist comes the flounce of the material, which is caught in at the waist under a broad belt that is really a bodice, so wide is it, and this is followed by a flounce of lace or of lace on the skirt is made becoming by having the shirred yoke and the rest of the skirt made in two separate pieces, the yoke really sewed on to the skirt itself and then the material cut away over the hips. The yoke, to be becoming to most figures, should be a little pointed in front, but where it is possible and the figure is slender enough to permit of it the yoke can be the same all the way round. When a more elaborate style of gown is desired the yoke is made of lace or embroidery or of entire doux of lace and clusters of fine tucks put in by hand, and in ordinary or fine Persian lawn the effect of this is as dainty and light as can well be imagined.

The new gowns for summer, that is, dinner or ball gowns, should by rights not be of as heavy material as are used in winter, and now with the multitude of transparent fabrics that are to be had it is easier to carry out the order for light instead of heavy effects.

Spangled net gowns have been in fashion so long a time that it seems incredible they should retain any sort of a place in Possibilities of the Week-End House Party.

Of the many social customs transplanted from England to American shores none appeals so strongly or so practically to the hostess of moderate means as does the week-end house party.

Each year shows a marked increase in the number of families without children who keep their town apartments open the year round in order to have a place to which, with its cool gardens, its beach trips and its large, cool rooms, is a distinct improvement over the summer resort, with its noisy modes of entertainment, its eternal round of dressing and its stuffy, lacquered rooms. Many a wife who could amply afford to spend the entire heated term out of the city, will remain this year to share with her husband the pleasures of summer evenings in town, which, by the way, are not to be despised.

To those couples in particular an invitation for a week-end house party will prove most welcome.

The duties of the week-end hostess are most simple, if she only realized it. She arranges her parties with infinite tact, knowing that success will depend more upon the good comradeship of her guests than upon her own efforts to provide entertainment. Over-entertaining or fussiness on the part of the hostess is fatal to a house party. It should be marked by restfulness and freedom from constraint. Friday to Monday guests rather enjoy being left to themselves part of the time, and are only too glad to follow their own devices in the country.

The house parties given by the George Goulds at Georgian Court are a notable example of this principle. Their beautiful home, the luxurious grounds, the pleasures and amusements of their family are placed at the disposal of the week-end guest, but no set form of entertainment, no formal functions are provided. Yet of all the invitations issued by the smart set none are more eagerly sought than those which come from Georgian Court.

If Mrs. Hubbard is wise she will follow the same plan. Her guest rooms will be as pure as air. She will give more attention to her porch furnishings in summer than to her draperies for her drawing room. The weary city life, whose first glimpse of his host's home takes in a veranda scattered with easy chairs and cushions, a wicker table for the afternoon tea service and the new magazines, a hammock, cozier corners and arbors in the garden, feels that he is doubly welcome. What is but a part of his hostess's everyday life forms the novelty for the guest. News that the country club has opened up golf links is more interesting and pleasing than the announcement that other suburbanites are to join the party for progressive rubber or bridge in the evening. Anything more formal than an impromptu dance at the country club is really in bad taste. And the hostess who has any regard for the spleen, nerves and temper of her guests will eschew the straw ride. Harry's still possess a fascination for the very young set of society. The older guests prefer less strenuous methods of entertainment. A porch dimly lighted by Japanese lanterns, plenty of pretty girls, someone who can thrum a banjo, cooling drinks—this represents comfort.

Where guests arrive on Friday there is generally some such informal entertaining as a dance at the club house. In case guests do not arrive before Saturday the party is tolerably sure of finding ample and congenial entertainment within its own ranks, riding and driving if the host has horses, the early morning tramp over the hills or through the woods, the rest of the day on the links or the tennis court, the evenings on the dim, breezy porch, or, in case of storm, indoors, with music and cards and all that the house party friend wants or expects.

These lives in Westchester county a couple whose week-end parties are more than famous among art and literary folk of New York, yet their entertaining is of the simplest sort. The head of the family is a publisher, who frankly confesses that his income has never reached the point where he could move his family of three boys and two girls to the city for the winter. Their assets for entertaining consist of a great, roomy, old-fashioned house, with porches all around it, a vista of drizzling woods, two devoted servants, a reliable, cranky old phaeton and a gray horse who knows his business so well that he pauses instinctively before the fields where the best wild flowers grow.

In this home no entertaining is done save from Friday to Monday, but on those days the house is always filled with guests during spring and summer. The men spend their mornings fishing in a nearby brook, which is the best trout stream in the county, and would be scorned by the boys of the village, or on the nearest links, while the women often drive to the nearest town, where their hostess buys such supplies as are not raised in the own garden. Dinner comes in true country style at noon, and supper is often served on the porch. All day Sunday the family horse earns his oats, and the broad veranda looks as if a new stand had been overhauled. Twice a month, on Saturday afternoon, the Country Club has a series of matches on the grounds, and on the alternate Saturdays gives a most informal lunch, with music by local players and a refreshment limited to ices and cakes.

In speaking of her long series of house parties, the hostess says: "We never knew until quite lately that in giving these week-end parties we were doing the most fashionable thing. It has long been my husband's fad to have his city friends here over Sunday, and while we entertain almost every week during our 'season,' I do not believe we spend as much as one of our city friends over winter round of teas, luncheons and dinners. We do not set an elaborate table, but offer what we know our guests do not have in town—fruit, vegetables, eggs and chickens raised in our own place. This style of entertaining does not entail the specially prepared programme of amusements necessary when you have guests for a week or more and country life begins to pall upon them. My servants know their limits to these three days, and there will be no confusion during the rest of the week.

Another hostess has even less to offer in her pretty New Jersey home, yet her invitations for the week-end are always accepted with gratitude.

"You see," she said, "our guests seldom arrive before Saturday afternoon, and by the time they have slipped into something cool and summery and had dinner they ask nothing more than a quiet, restful evening on the porch where the men smoke and the girls look pretty. Sunday morning's breakfast is a movable feast, which I prepare myself. This gives the guests a chance for the sleep they cannot get in town, with milk wafers and elevated trains clanging in the distance. The arrangement also gives my servant a chance to go to church and reconciles her to the 6 o'clock dinner.

"For the breakfast I have fresh fruit, prepared cereals, rolls, coffee and eggs or other dishes easy to prepare, so that my morning's work is not a hardship for myself, nor does it make my tardy guests feel that they are putting me to much extra trouble. However, they are usually down and ready for outdoor pleasures by half-past 9 or 10 o'clock.

"We have no horses, but our girls lead to the woods, which are alive with wild flowers, and we sacrificed our side line to tennis. Men in particular do not seem to desire entertainment. Given an ugly black pipe, an interesting book and a shady corner on the porch where they can see the sun and the stars, or a group of them will spend hours playing 'catch,' as if it were a new found amusement.

Luncheon is served on the porch, and the 6 o'clock dinner is the one formal event of the day. The arrangement also gives my servant a chance to go to church and reconciles her to the 6 o'clock dinner.

From experience I have found that the week-end party, composed of people who are not wish to be entertained too much. They want to be alone, to be comfortable and in congenial company. The art of letting people alone is one that our English cousins cultivate gracefully. Americans, as a rule, are apt to overstep the role of hostess. Our guests include both personal friends and the men and women whom my husband meets in a business way, so we begin to entertain very early. May and June are ideal months for house parties, for then the woods and the fields are at their best. Occasionally we join with our neighbors in giving a dance at the village club house, but we make it a point to have young people in our party as much time. The older set seem to enjoy better the porch, with its hammock and easy chairs, the new magazines and cooling drinks. A summer hostess should aim at simplicity. If she wishes her guests to feel as cozy with her and themselves, a flustered hostess is bad enough in winter; in summer she is intolerable.

The guest who is joining her first house party should give considerable thought to the clothes she will wear with her. The host and hostess are known to go in for athletic sports she will prepare accordingly. If she plays golf she takes her club, or if it is tennis, her own racket. If the home is on the water front and sailing will be in order she takes her thick veil, her sweater or her reefers. The over-dressed girl is distinctly out of place in a house party whose members do so heavily for sports. If there are horses and she rides she will, of course, need her habit. Green Gooseberry Jelly.

Wash the berries and take off the tops; to six pounds of gooseberries pour a scant pint of filtered water and simmer until the berries are well broken; turn into a jelly bag and let drain through muslin the juice, then put back on the fire and boil rapidly for fifteen minutes; draw it back from the fire and stir into it an equal quantity of sugar; stir and then boil it fifteen to twenty minutes longer, or until it jellies strongly on the spoon; while boiling it must be kept perfectly free from scum.
